AS NAT LOUBET SEES IT

THE RING has been receiving letters by the bushel from fans who demand a new tax deal for fighters visiting in New York rings.

They believe that a revised tax schedule would revive major boxing in Madison Square Garden. A revised schedule is a necessity if boxing is to get a new lease on life in the city in which the game was born in this country.

Ring readers ask that new Governor Carey of New York State, and Mayor Beame, of New York City, get together and reinstitute the tax arrangement which was passed by the state legislature but was vetoed by then Governor Wilson.

Wilson would have been beaten even if there had been no boxing issue at stake.

But Wilson's stand on the boxing matter alienated thousands of boxing buffs. His veto in an election year surprised the politicians of the state. But the outgoing governor does not like boxing and he was determined to see that what he thought of the fistic sport would be the state's sentiments on fights. Poor naive Malcolm!

More than 14,000,000 visitors come to New York city annually. They spend millions, while in the metropolis, in restaurants, hotels, shops—and boxing, if it is attractive.

To lure fight fans into the Garden requires alluring attractions of the kind that filled that arena when Muhammad Ali fought Joe Frazier twice.

True, Carey and Beame are busy with matters of greater import than boxing. We are in a recession, in a period of financial difficulty and inflation.

But the governor and the mayor can find time to make the fight fans aware that they are earnestly represented by officials who are interested in their metropolitan entertainment.

Revise the tax schedule and New York will become a scene of major boxing activity. There will be fresh consideration of matches which had been abandoned because of the tax problem.

New York will become active again in bringing Ali and Frazier into the Garden for the third time.

New York will offer more alluring terms to George Foreman, whom the big city would like to see fight in his true form and condition he failed to achieve in Africa.

After Foreman had been knocked out by Muhammad, a return match was not listed among the big fistic attractions on the American programme.

But The Ring has revised its attitude toward George. It believes that he is capable of doing far better than he did at Zaire and would like to see a return match, in New York.

It was not natural for a big, powerful fighter like Foreman—the heavyweight who had done in Frazier in two rounds at Jamaica—to become exhausted in 15 minutes.

There was something radically wrong with Foreman. Let him train in this country, let him fight in this country and he will give a far different account of himself.

Garden prosperity in New York has a lot to do with the general prosperity of boxing in the United States. If the New York arena revives, the effect on other areas, even Los Angeles, will become felt.

Let us not forget that boxing in New York runs on a street with two-way traffic.

If the Garden is the beneficiary of a revised tax schedule, it will behoove the arena to revive its ambitions and its spirit.

Too greatly have the Garden's plans and determinations been fashioned by the smaller arena next to the Garden, the Felt Forum. There is a place for the Forum, and it invites the schooling of young fighters who are getting prepared for entry into the main amphitheatre.

Let it only most rarely be said again, "This proposition is too big for us."

MUHAMMAD ALI

FIGHTER OF THE YEAR

3 — ANTONIO CERVANTES

By DAN DANIEL

BOXING history for the year 1974 revolves chiefly around the achievements, not to speak of the oratory and public demonstrations, of Muhammad Ali, originally known as Cassius Clay.

Picking the Fighter of the Year was a sinecure. The designation of Ali was automatic. Not even a close second.

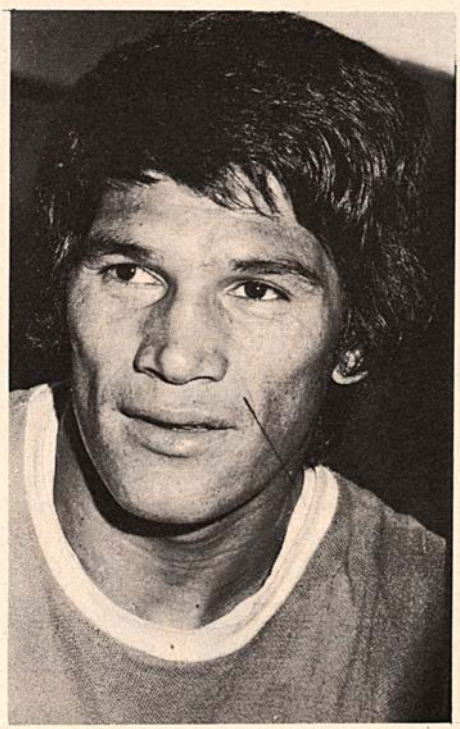
His sudden and spectacular knockout of George Foreman in the dramatic environment of Zaire in the Congo, clinched the selection of the two time world champion. In regaining the heavyweight title, Cassius matched a feat hitherto achieved only by Floyd Patterson.

Floyd lost the championship to Ingemar Johansson and regained the crown from the Swede.

Ali gave up the title he had won from Sonny Liston and recovered it by punching out Foreman in the eighth round.

In January, 1974, Ali scored over Joe Frazier in a 15-round fight in New York.

What with Cassius defeating both Frazier and Foreman within a space of 10 months,



2 — CARLOS MONZON

4 — JOHN CONTEH

5 — OSCAR ALVARADO

there was little sense in presenting a case for Muhammad's closest contender, Carlos Monzon, middleweight champion of the world, who stopped Jose Napoles in seven rounds and Tony Mundine in seven more.

Behind Ali and Carlos we find Antonio Cervantes, of Colombia, the world junior welterweight titleholder.

For the holder of a junior class championship to break into the top five of any year is quite a feat.

Cervantes knocked out Victor Ortiz in two heats and the Japanese, Sinichi Kadota, in eight.

The No. 4 Fighter of the Year is Britain's John Conteh, owner of the WBC half of the light heavy title.

Conteh earned his place with victories over Les Stevens, Tom Bogs, Chris Finnegan and Jorge Ahumada.

The Ahumada fight turned the trick for Conteh. It went 15 rounds. Ahumada had earned at least a draw with Bob Foster and induced the longtime titleholder to retire.

The No. 5 entry for the Fighter of he Year prize is Oscar Alvarado, the junior middleweight champion. He gained the honor and the title by stopping Koichi Wajima in the 15th round at Tokyo.

To be frank about it, the writer would not care to compare the top five fighters of 1974 with the majority of the leading fives of most of the past years.

Time was when the fives were loaded with American battlers. Those days are gone. Will they come back? It's a question not even a highly expert necromancer can pretend to answer.

Even Muhammad Ali does not impress the experts as a serious rival of the vast majority of the 22 other heavies involved in the competition since 1928. Ali was not the clearcut contender before he slipped that KO over on Foreman on October 30, 1974.

However, for what we have let us thank the deities of the ring.

A listing of the Ring's Fighter of the Year since the award was instituted in 1928 with a medal for Gene Tunney, shows that Muhammad Ali (Cassius Clay), got the citation outright in 1963 and 1974 and split it with Carlos Monzon in 1972.

Joe Louis, with four awards, is the standout and Joe Frazier and Rocky Marciano come next with three each.

Twice has the Fighter of the Year award been omitted. In 1933 the committee would have honored Primo Carnera if he had not been managed by hoodlums. In 1966 the selectors ignored Clay because of his stand on the draft.

FIGHT OF THE YEAR

By GEORGE GIRSCH

THE FIGHT of Year for 1974 goes hands down to the Muhammad Ali-George Foreman encounter held at the ungodly hour of 4 A.M. in Kinshasa, Zaire, this past October 30.

It was more or less the return of the prodigal son as Ali outfought and outsmarted a man six years younger who was rated a 3-1 favorite before entering the ring to do battle.

Foreman was thought to be a man-killer after disposing of Joe Frazier to win the title in January, 1973, then stopping Joe King Roman and Ken Norton in short order. How could the light-punching Ali, who couldn't dance anymore possibly defeat the supposedly invincible Foreman, who would surely crush him with his mighty fists?

But, rising from the ashes like the legendary Phoenix, Ali, who seemed to be a gone goose early in the bout, began to use the ropes to his advantage, wore down his rather dense opponent and finally knocked him out in the eighth round with a sturdy left-right combination, catching the bewildered and exhausted Foreman off-balance at the exact right moment.

There were four runners-up to the Ali-Foreman embroglio worthy of note—Ali vs. Joe Frazier; the second Roberto Duran-Esteban DeJesus contest; Bobby Chacon vs. Alfredo Marcano and John Conteh vs. Jorge Ahumada. They paled into insignificance, however, when matched against the Zaire meeting for which each contestant received $5,000,000.

As everyone knows, the Ali-Foreman battle was delayed more than a month due to a cut suffered by Foreman over his right eye during a training session with sparring partner Bill McMurray. As events proved, the cut played no part in Foreman's defeat by Ali.

What did prove to be the big difference was Ali's quick brain and Foreman's seeming lack of condition which led to his exhaustion after only five rounds.

At the start it seemed as if Foreman would break Ali in half as he attacked the former champ and forced him against the ropes, continually pounding away at his body, particularly the ribs.

Ali, meantime, was attempting to keep George away by flicking his famous left in

Ali-Foreman, Oct. 30, 1974

2 — ALI-FRAZIER

Named first runner-up to the Ali-Foreman engagement was Ali's return match with ex-titleholder Joe Frazier, held at New York's Madison Square Garden on January 28. Though Ali received a 12-round decision, many observers thought Frazier won the contest, just as he had captured his first meeting with Ali in their titanic 1971 contest. Two of five members of The Ring staff attending the bout thought Frazier deserved the 12-round verdict. The triumph, of course, led to Ali's meeting with Foreman in Africa. Ali landed more blows but Frazier's had much more authority in them. Joe also forced the fight all the way.

3 — DURAN-DE JESUS

A very exciting battle was that between lightweight king Roberto Duran and challenger Esteban DeJesús held in Panama on March 16, which culminated in Duran scoring an 11-round knockout after having hit the canvas himself in the first round. It was Duran's fourth successful defense of his 135-pound title. He had won it from Scotland's Ken Buchanan on June 26, 1972, at New York's Madison Square Garden. Prior to the knockout, Duran also floored the Puerto Rican in the seventh round. DeJesus, who had dominated the early going, ran out of gas as the fight progressed and was ripe for picking when the end came.

4 — CHACON-MARCANO

The fourth best bout of 1974 was the encounter between sensational Bobby Chacon of California and Alfredo Marcano of Venezuela at the Olympic Auditorium in Los Angeles on September 7. Chacon, in only his 26th bout (he is the American featherweight titleholder), put away Marcano at 2:18 of the ninth round to win the World Boxing Council version of the 126-pound crown. Though Marcano did beat the 10-count, referee Ray Solis halted matters when he saw that Marcano was in no condition to continue. Chacon dominated the early going. Marcano's heavy punching took over in the sixth, but Chacon came back to end it satisfactorily.

5 — CONTEH-AHUMADA

John Conteh's victory over Jorge Ahumada in a 15-rounder held at the Wembley Pool in London, was judged the fifth best bout of the year. The contest, held on October 1, was for the World Boxing Council version of the 175-pound title. The retirement of Bob Foster left the crown vacant, which The Ring still maintains is the case. Ahumada, the Argentine, had fought what was officially ruled a draw in a 15-rounder with Foster in the latter's hometown of Albuquerque, N.M. earlier in the year. Most observers opined, however, that Ahumada won that contest. In an exciting bout all the way, Conteh clearly was the victor in crisp fashion.

ROUND OF THE YEAR

ALI KOs FOREMAN, 8TH ROUND

By NAT LOUBET

THE choice of The Ring Round of the Year is complicated by the many problems confronting the selectors. Of the thousands of rounds fought yearly around the globe many hold some of the ingredients for nomination but lack others.

Can some insignificant bout in which a war occurs inside the ring during a specific round receive close consideration? After much puddling around it was concluded that the importance of the fight on an international basis as well as the occurance inside the ring during a particular round and its importance to boxing would be the final consideration.

The entries having been screened, the five leading rounds of the year 1974 were:

1 — The 8th round of the Muhammad Ali-George Foreman fight in Kinshasha, Zaire, in which the heavyweight championship of the world changed hands with Ali upsetting Foreman to become the second man in boxing history to regain that crown.

2 — The 15th in Tokyo, which saw Oscar (Shotgun) Alvarado win the junior middleweight crown by knocking out Japan's Koichi Wajima at 1:57 of what was the last round.

3 — The 5th in the bout between Joe Frazier and Jerry Quarry in Madison Square Garden, in which Frazier won the right to be considered for another shot at the heavyweight title.

4 — Round 13 in which Alexis Arguello, of Nicaragua, came from behind to knock out WBA featherweight champ Ruben Olivares at the Forum in Inglewood, California.

5 — The 7th round at Monte Carlo, in which Colombia's Rodrigo Valdez won the WBC middleweight title by kayoing Benny Briscoe, of Philadelphia.

ALI-FOREMAN 8TH

In a historical upset, Muhammad Ali went through seven rounds with the world heavyweight champion, George Foreman, with George rushing Ali to the ropes and attempting to smash the challenger to defeat mainly with body blows. Ali used the ropes to advantage and, by round five, it was obvious that Foreman was very tired.

Then came the eighth round and the end at 2:58. His power gone, Foreman took a crushing left hook and a right cross and dropped to the deck. He was unable to beat referee Zack Clayton's count and a new heavyweight champ was crowned.

2 — ALVARADO-WAJIMA 15th

Oscar Alvarado, challenger for the junior middle crown, found himself behind in his battle with the champ, Koichi Wajima. The 25-year-old American was on his way to defeat when he mounted a devastating two-fisted attack in the last round to blast the champion to the canvas at 1:57 to annex the crown. Prior to the ending, Wajima had been floored three times by straight lefts and hooks to the head. It was the new champion's 51st victory.

3 — FRAZIER-QUARRY 5th

Joe Frazier came out smoking in his second bout with Jerry Quarry and Madison Square Garden fans saw the ex-champion at his best. With pure fury and a savage display, Quarry was bombed to defeat. The Irish lad was never in the running and referee Joe Louis, urged on by ringsiders, called a halt to the fight at 1:37 of the fifth to prevent Quarry suffering further punishment. At the conclusion of the fourth, Quarry was on his knees in his corner and in the fifth the end came not as a result of any particular blow but the results of a complete beating. Frazier's right was the deciding factor.

4 — ARGUELLO-OLIVARES 13th

Ruben Olivares of Mexico City, the WBA featherweight champ, went into his title defense against Nicaragua's Alexis Arguello as a big favorite. His 22-year-old challenger was expected to put on an "also ran" exhibition.

By the 13th round he appeared to be slowing down to a walk and pre-fight predictions seemed sure. Suddenly, Alexis landed a ponderous left hook and the champ was down for an eight count. He was up and shaking his head when another left hook dropped him for good. The round was only half a minute old when the ending came finishing the 26-year-old champion's reign.

5 — VALDEZ-BRISCOE 7th

At Monte Carlo, the WBC put what they termed the vacant middleweight title up for grabs. The grabbers were Rodrigo Valdez of Colombia, and Benny Briscoe of the U.S.A.

As the fight progressed it was obvious the more scientific ability of Valdez was gaining him the edge.

The seventh and final round saw Briscoe stagger from a left hook and right cross. Another hook, and down he went. Up at eight but with Bennie obviously in no condition to continue, referee Harry Gibbs halted matters and Valdez owned a version of the middleweight title for whatever it was worth.

THE 1974 Progress Award goes for the first time to a world champion, Soo Hwan Hong, of Korea, who came out of nowhere to win the world bantamweight crown.

This year's four leaders in progress came from the Orient, which shows the increase in quality boxers in that area. The group includes Shoji Oguma, Japan; Thanomjit Sukothai, Thailand, both flyweights, and Japan's featherweight Shig Fukuyama.

Rounding out the ten are Sven-Erik Paulsen, junior lightweight, Norway; Laudial Negron, junior welterweight, Puerto Rico; Las Vegas lightweight Angel Mayoral; Italy's Domenico Adinolfi, light heavyweight; Brooklyn middleweight Vito Antuofermo, and the only heavyweight to make the list, Minneapolis' Duane Bobick.

Little is known of Soo Hwan Hong. The Ring Record Book lists only three bouts before 1974, one of which was a loss to the #3 flyweight, Thanomjit Sukothai. His record last year was not that impressive until he defeated Arnold Taylor over 15 rounds in Durban, South Africa, to win the world bantamweight title.

Other bouts were a loss to Seichi Watanuki in a Tokyo 12, and a 12-round decision over Mirune Go in Pusan City, Korea, in which he retained his Orient bantamweight crown. Soo was rated a "B" last year.

Shoji Oguma came from a "C" to Group 1, No. 2 in the flyweight division. He engaged in four bouts, winning three, losing once. He defeated Kenji Kato, 10; Nacho Casteneda, 10, and outpointed Betulio Gonzalez over 15 rounds to win the W.B.C. flyweight title. Shoji was defeated by Gonzalez in a non-title bout early in the year.

Number three on the list is Thailand's flyweight contender Thanomjit Sukothai. He moved up from "C" to No. 1 in Group II. Over this past year he won all his bouts, including one for the vacant Orient bantamweight title, vacated by Soo Hwan Hong. Sukothai kayoed Shoji Okano, 9; Max Sanchez, 5; outpointed Fernando Cabanela, 10, and decisioned Conrado Vasquez, 12, to win the Orient title.

Japan's Shig Fukuyama, rated "C", moved up to Group II, No. 5 in the world featherweight rankings. All four bouts last year ended in kayo's, Shig winning three. He stopped Carlos Perez, 1, Carlos Becerril, 10 and his big one, Danny Lopez, 9. Fukuyama was halted in his first bout of last year by Jose Luis Lopez in 5. All of the above bouts took place in Los Angeles, Calif.

Norwegian Sven-Erik Paulsen is the first of his countrymen to win this award. Ranked "C", he moved to Group II, No. 1 in the junior lightweight ranks. Paulsen boxed six times, winning all. He kayoed E.B.U. featherweight king Gitano Jiminez, 8; Tommy Wright, 7; and won the E.B.U. junior lightweight title via a three-rounder over Lothar Abend. Sven holds decisions over Tommy Wright, Ugo Poli and defended his E.B.U. crown against Giovanni Girgenti, 15 rounds.

Laudial Negron, a junior welterweight from Puerto Rico, was a "C". He moved into Group II, No. 8. He engaged in five contests, losing once. "Boriruck", as he is called in P.R., scored all kayo wins — Frankie Benitez, 6; L. C. Mack, 1; TNT Gordon, 2; and Alvaro Parra, 1. His defeat was on a cut eye to ranking contender Brooks Byrd.

Veteran lightweight Angel Mayoral finally came into his own over the last 12 months. Now living in Las Vegas, Nevada, the former Mexican resident won 7 out of 7, scoring his wins over Camileo de la Rosa, Malai Thong Sithkoom, Juan Collado, Norman Goins, Stan Yanecheck and John Copeland.

His biggest victory was a close decision over American lightweight king Ray Lampkin in Las Vegas. The southpaw was a "B", is now ranked Group I, No. 3 in the lightweight division.

Italy's Domenico Adinolfi went to the post eight times, winning six, drawing one, no contest one. Domenico was a "B", is now Group II, No. 8 in the light heavyweight ratings. Adinolfi won from Jean Tshikuna, 8; stopped Ba Sounkalo, 6; Dino Tarocco, 4; Karl Zurheide, 4, and Sergio Jannilli, 7. He is now the E.B.U. light heavyweight champion, scoring a one-round kayo over Karl Heinz Klein. Domenico also boxed a draw with Tom Bethea, and a no-contest against Billy Lloyd.

The #9 man is Brooklyn middleweight Vito Antuofermo. His record for the year is 7 wins, no losses. Last year an "A" boxer, this year Group I, No. 3. Vito kayoed Joey Durelle, 1 and Paul Osborne, 3. The Brooklyn Bomber decisioned Jesse Garcia, John L. Sullivan, Mel Dennis, Denny Moyer and ex-middleweight and welterweight king Emile Griffith.

The only heavyweight in the Progress top ten is Duane Bobick, Minneapolis, Minn. Duane boxed ten times last year, winning them all, thereby keeping his undefeated record intact. He beat Billy Daniels and Lou Bailey in 10, kayoed Jimmy Summerville, 2; Orville Qualls, 2; Jimmie Cross, 3; Ted Gullick, 2; Art Robinson, 3; Donnie Nelson, 1; Mike Weaver, 7 and Harold Carter, 2. Bobick moved from a "B" to Group III, No. 5 in the heavies.

ROUNDUP OF THE YEAR

Antonio Cervantes of Colombia, the junior welterweight titleholder, raises his gloves in victory after stopping Sinichi Kadota on the eighth round of their title bout in Tokyo. It was Cervantes' eighth successful defense of his crown.

By NAT LOUBET

THE YEAR 1975 is upon us with new deeds to be niched into the Ring Record Book. But what of 1974? It is now just one of the years gone by but the events blazoned across the sports mediums around the world relative to boxing will share pages down through the eons of time.

That was the year of the biggest heavyweight championship fight of all time both from world interest and financial attainment.

When Muhammad Ali became the second man in boxing history to win the heavyweight crown for the second time, (the first was Floyd Patterson) his knockout victory over the 3 to 1 favorite, champ George Foreman, in 2:58 of the 8th round, gave him his place in a unique page of boxing history.

The fight was also one of the year's oddities. Never before had a fight of such magnitude taken place in a city and country so little known, Kinshasa, in the African country of Zaire, with each fighter guaranteed $5,000,000. In a fight with no knockdowns other than the final one with some 65,000 fans screaming slogans for their favorites, referee Zack Clayton, the first black man to ever referee a world heavyweight title match, counted out Foreman as he attempted to beat the ten count and failed.

The buildup for the Zaire Affair took place in March when George Foreman lent evidence to the growing rumor of his invincibility. He did this simply by knocking out Ken Norton, the same fighter who had broken the great Ali's jaw, in two minutes of the second round with Norton having been decked twice. Foreman's bubble was broken when Ali let all the air out of George's invincibility at Kinshasa.

Waiting in the wings for a shot during 1975 is Joe Frazier, who, with Ali put on a losing effort against the new champion over 12 rounds but came back later in the year to knock out Jerry Quarry in five rounds to look better than he had in several years.

Frazier looked like the tiger of days gone by before he had lost his crown to Foreman in Jamaica. He was better than the Frazier who defeated Ali in their first meeting in 1971.

He reminded experts of the Frazier who was being touted as an all-time great before he blew it all in his outing with Foreman. The Frazier-Ali first fight was the largest financial draw of all non-title heavyweight fights.

That Joe would like a 1975 crack at Ali is no secret and that it will be another biggie needs no crystal ball.

While waiting, Frazier may have to watch Ali against Ron Lyle, who expects to meet Ali for the heavyweight crown in New York's Madison Square Garden. The papers are ready for signing.

Lyle has won this right by winning five straight fights in 1974. Oscar Bonavena, Larry Middleton, Jimmy Ellis, Boone Kirkman and Al Jones have all gone down to defeat at his hands.

The aspirants for heavyweight title shots are growing. One of these is England's Joe Bugner, with four straight wins this past year, holder of the European heavyweight title. A good boxer, if Joe had a better punch he would be accorded a good chance to gain the crown for England. Unfortunately, Joe is a little weak in the delivery department and his boxing skill is equalled by Ali.

The light heavyweight class is in a quandary with Bob Foster retired as of September 16, 1974 and no clearcut new champion being declared universally. Foster had but one fight in 1974, that with Jorge Ahumada of Argentina, in which Bob retained his crown with a 15-round draw in Albuquerque that left many heads shaking in disbelief at the decision. There is some movement to bring Bob back to fight England-based John Conteh, who has received the blessings of the World Boxing Council for light heavyweight championship recognition. Such a bout perhaps would give the winner universal acceptance.

John Conteh of England lands a glancing blow to the head of Argentina's Jorge Ahumada during their 15-rounder at Wembley, England. Conteh was declared the points victor.

In the meantime, the World Boxing Association has given its recognition for the same title to Victor Galindez, who won that version of the light heavy bauble when the American champion, Len Hutchins, failed to come out for the 13th round in their Buenos Aires fight.

The middleweight situation is clearer with the World Boxing Association and The Ring Magazine recognizing Carlos Monzon, of Argentina, as the world division king. Carlos won his title on Nov. 7, 1970 in Rome when he knocked out the universally recognized Italian, Nino Benvenuti, to win that title.

The past year Carlos defended his title against Jose Napoles, Cuban born, considered by many as one of the all-time great welters. Napoles was unable to answer the bell for the seventh round in their Paris fight, with Monzon retaining his middleweight title and Napoles his welterweight crown.

Later in the year, Monzon was challenged by Tony Mundine, the Australian champion, who went seven rounds in a no-knockdown bout other than the final kayo which came at 1:30 of the seventh when Mundine, often suspicioned to possess a weak chin, proved the allegation by taking one of Monzon's wallops to the chin to end his chances for the evening.

Last November the World Boxing Council announced it would recognize the winner of the fight on May 25th between Benny Brisco, of America, and Rodrigo Valdez, Colombia, in Monte Carlo as the lawful holder of the world middleweight title.

On November 30th, Valdez retained this version of his title by knocking out France's Gratien Tonna in Paris in 11 rounds.

For the first time in the 52-year history of The Ring Magazine the junior middleweight division was given recognition in 1974.

When Koichi Wajima, the universally recognized jr. middleweight titleholder of the world, was defeated by Texas-born Oscar Alvarado, on June 4th in a 15-round knockout, The Ring, which had been contemplating such a move for some time, declared itself as recognizing the junior middleweight division.

The first champion so recognized by The Ring was Alvarado, who defended his title once during the year, on October 8, in

ODDITIES OF THE YEAR

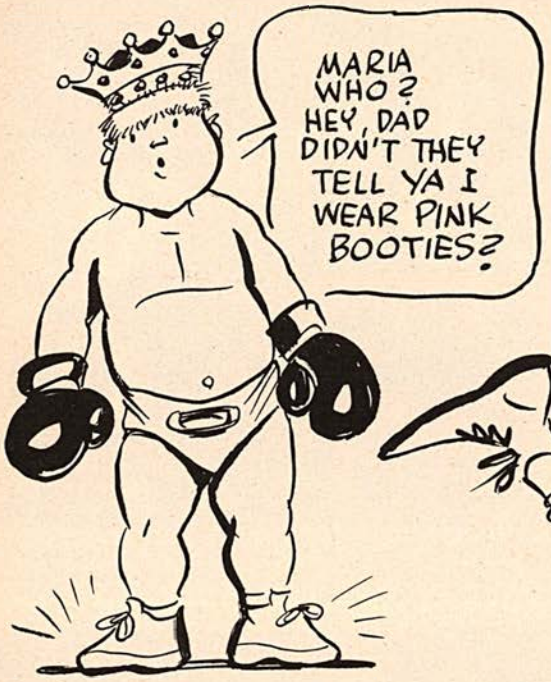
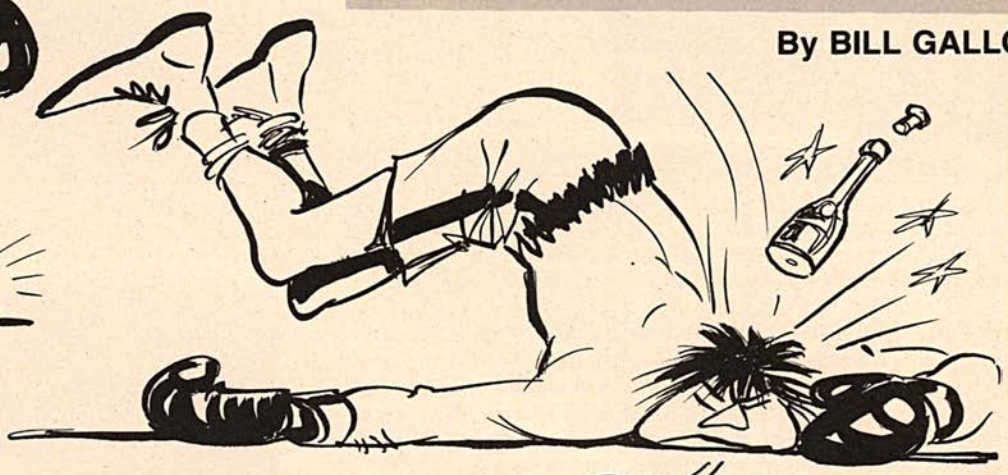
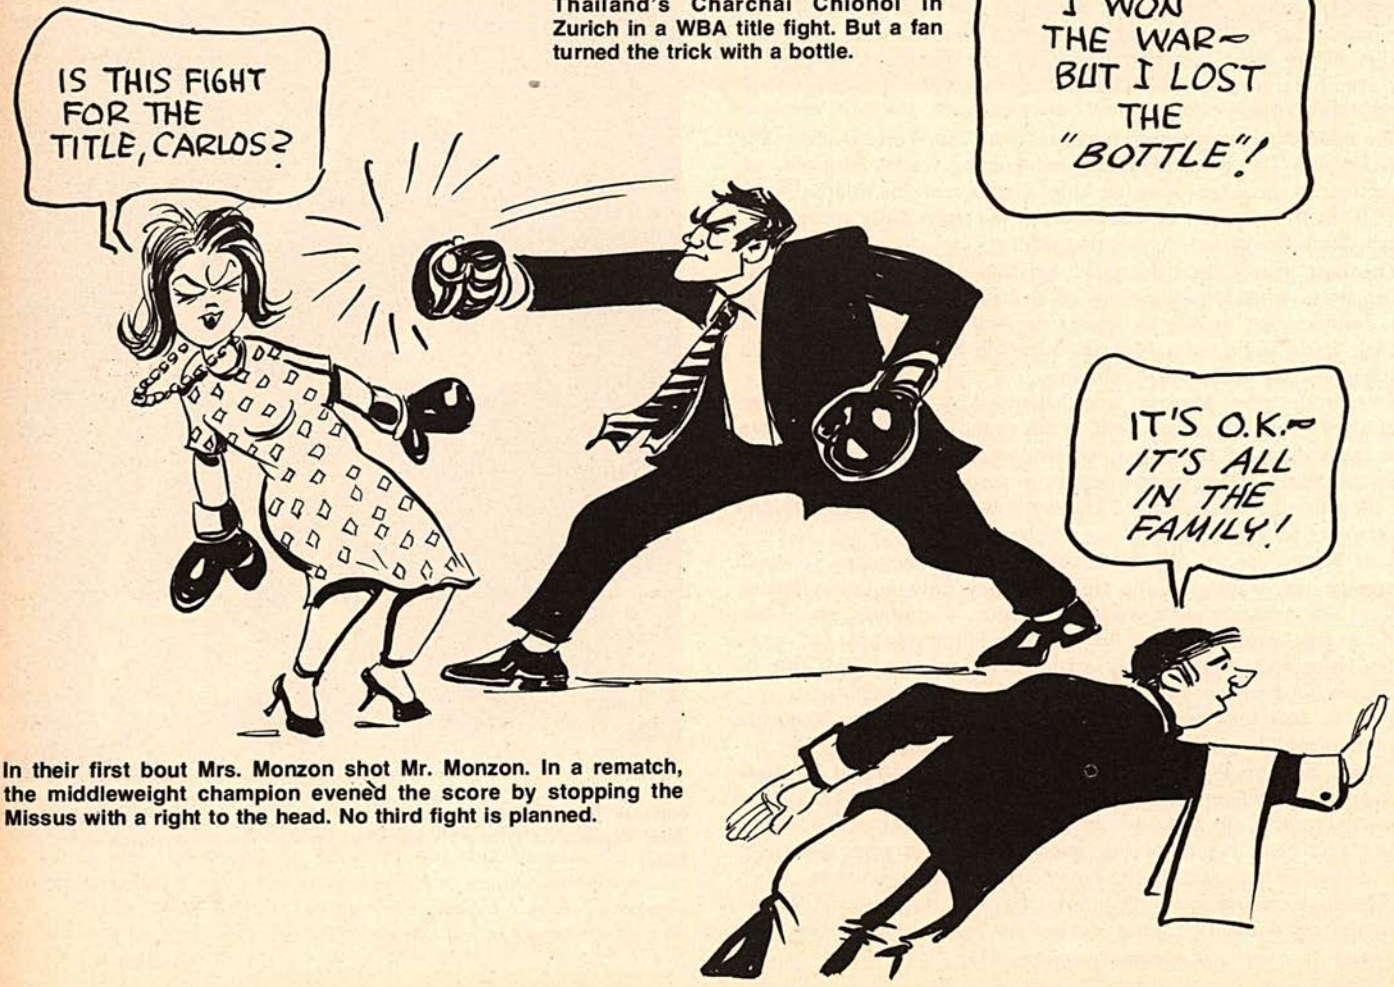
By BILL GALLO



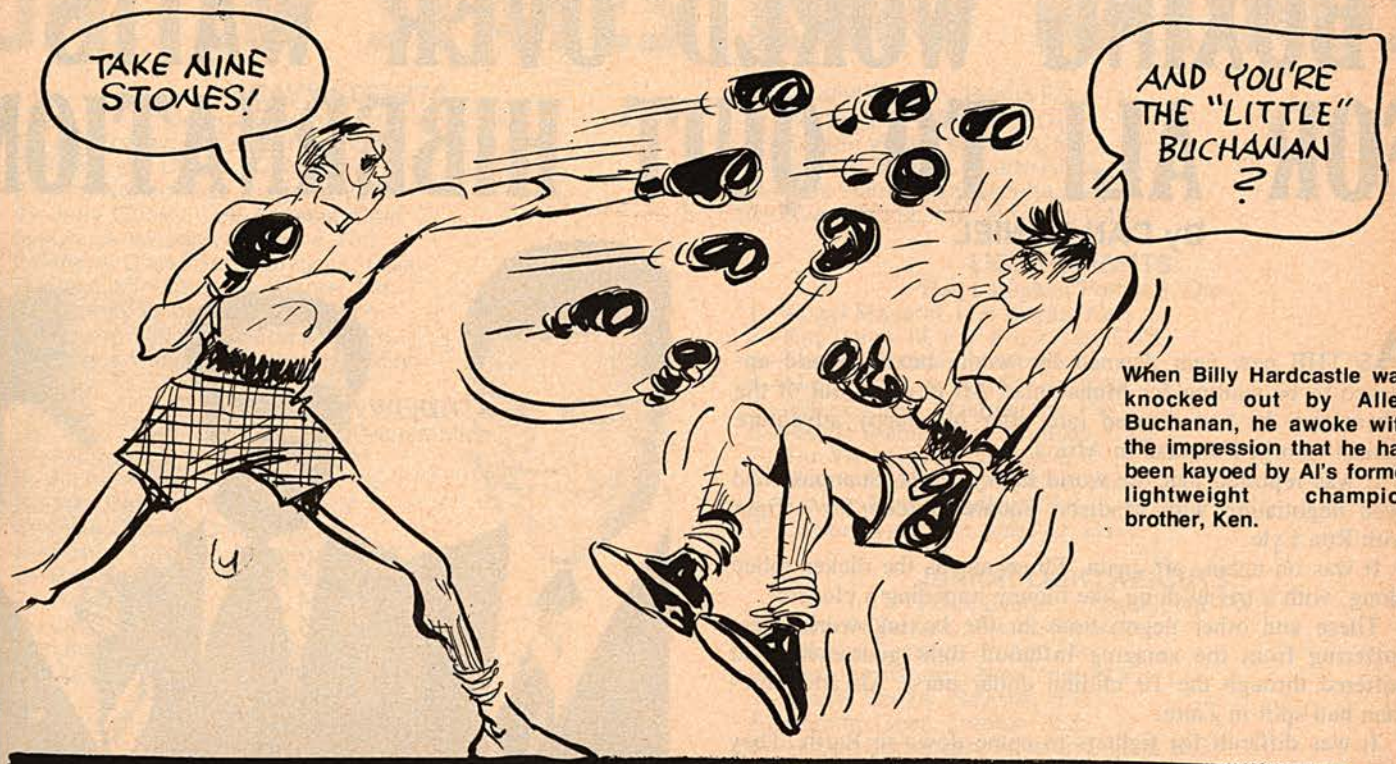
A British boxing buff got so daffy about heavyweight champions of the past that he gave his latest arrival, Maria, 25 middle names, all of which listed the heavy titleholders since Sullivan.



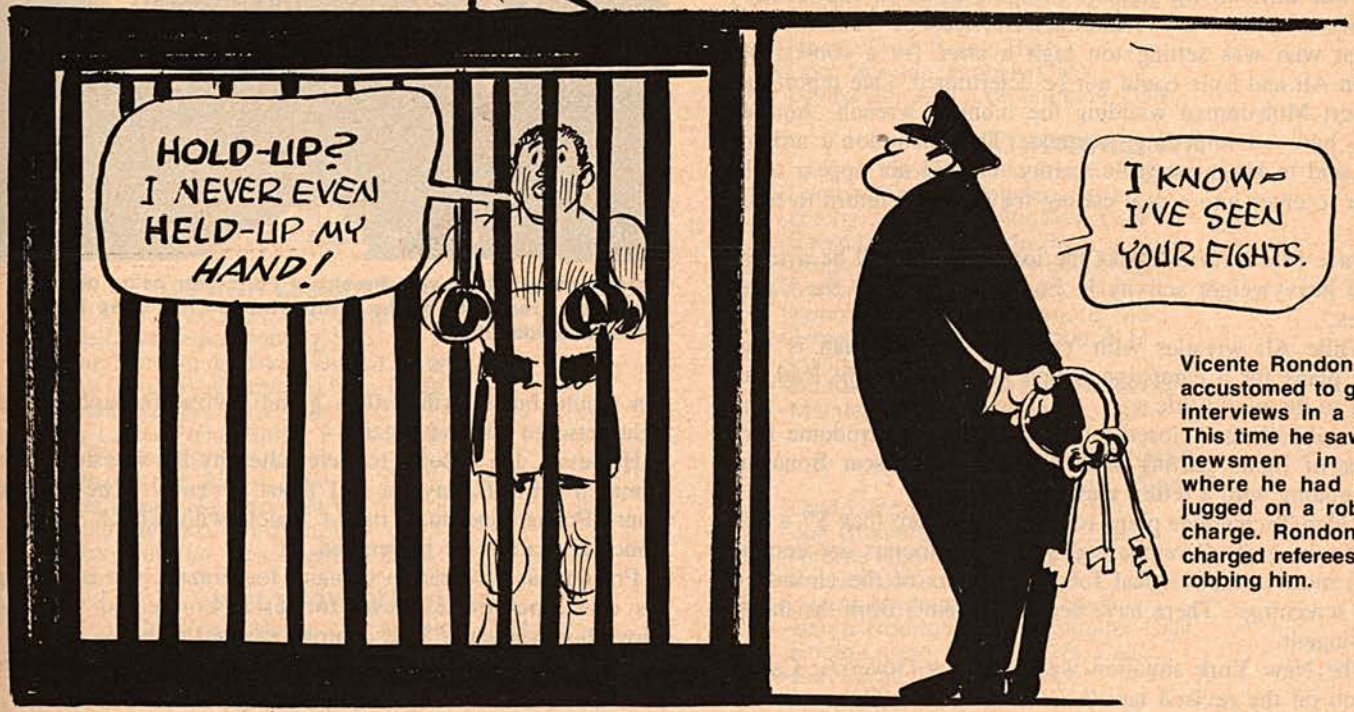
Fritz Chervet could not KO Thailand's Charchai Chionoi in Zurich in a WBA title fight. But a fan turned the trick with a bottle.



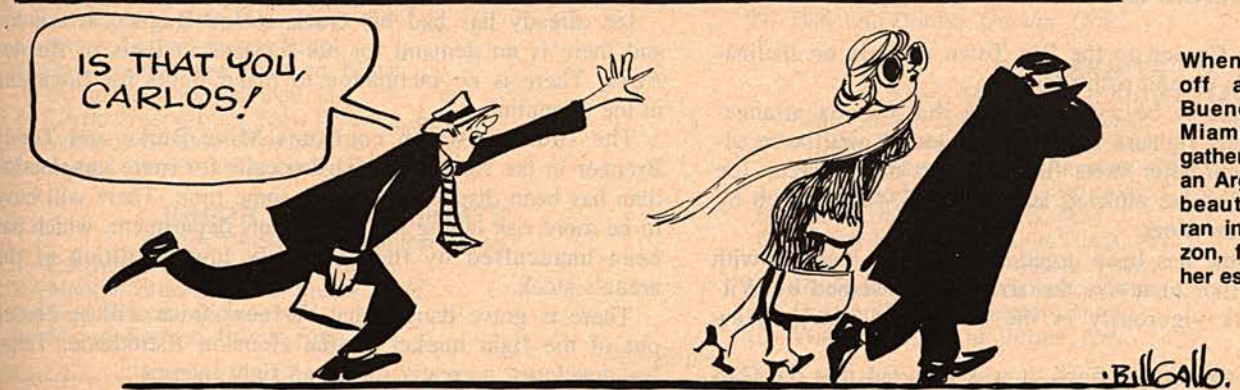
In their first bout Mrs. Monzon shot Mr. Monzon. In a rematch, the middleweight champion evened the score by stopping the Missus with a right to the head. No third fight is planned.



When Billy Hardcastle was knocked out by Allen Buchanan, he awoke with the impression that he had been kayoed by Al's former lightweight champion brother, Ken.



Vicente Rondon was accustomed to giving interviews in a gym. This time he saw the newsmen in jail, where he had been jugged on a robbery charge. Rondon had charged referees with robbing him.



When a couple got off a plane from Buenos Aires in Miami, newsmen gathered to interview an Argentinian movie beauty but instead ran into Carlos Monzon, fight champion, her escort.

BOXING WORLD OVER WAITS FOR ALI TO QUIT HIBERNATION

By DAN DANIEL

AS THE new year dawned the whole boxing world appeared to be waiting for Muhammad Ali to come out of the hibernation he had entered into after his happy adventure against George Foreman in Africa.

It was reported that the world heavyweight champion had been negotiating with Madison Square Garden for a fight with Ron Lyle.

It was on again, off again, Finnegan, as the dicker rolled along, with a trivial thing like money impeding a closure.

These and other negotiations in the boxing world were suffering from the amazing inflation fight guarantees had suffered through the 10 million dollar purse Ali and Foreman had split in Zaire.

It was difficult for fighters to come down to Earth. They still were inclined to overrate their services.

Just who was setting too high a price for a contest between Ali and Lyle could not be determined. One report had Herbert Muhammad wielding the monkey wrench. Another story had Ali impeding progress. The champion's attitude was said to verge on fistic apathy. He did not appear to be eager to enter into a deal calling for his early return to training.

Once Muhammad breaks the logjam there will be a revival of heavyweight activity in England as well as the United States.

While Ali wrestles with Yes and No, Foreman is busy with plans for a campaign which he believes will lead him back to the world title.

He already has closed with the Houston Astrodome for a series of fights starting with a match with Oscar Bonavena and ending with a return match with Ali.

Video Techniques plans to charge no more than $7 a ticket for the early Foreman fights. The promoters are cooking up a more attractive deal for the showers of the closed circuit screenings. There have been complaints from the theatre contingent.

The New York situation waits on new Governor Carey's action on the revised tax deal which retiring Governor Wilson vetoed.

Around the Garden in the Big Town there is no inclination to talk this up and rush things.

There appears to be a firm feeling that the tax arrangement for visiting fighters will be alleviated. It will be recollected that right after their first fight in the Garden, Joe Frazier and Ali were mulcted as much as $348,000 each by the State of New York.

Mayor Beame has been urged to ask for a meeting with the new governor to revive the arrangement vetoed by Wilson, and work vigorously in the interest of waning New York tourism.

Soon after the Congo fight, it was reported that the Garden would burst forth with a grand revival through a third fight between Ali and Frazier.

Muhammad Ali chats with President Ford after being given a red carpet treatment at the White House. The chap in the middle is unidentified.

However, Joe appears to have fallen by the wayside. Even a match with Bonavena fell apart recently. The Garden wants Frazier and may risk a match with Chuck Wepner. Chuck appears to be in demand.

Frazier has to create a demand for Frazier. He is running his own operation and no longer is connected with the Cloverlay syndicate. That contract expired recently.

Joe is having a difficult time fitting into the post-Zaire picture.

Joe already has had his crack at Joe Bugner in London and there is no demand for his services in Paris or Buenos Aires. There is no inclination to make fights for Bonavena in the Argentine.

The situation which confronts Mike Burke and Teddy Brenner in the New York Garden calls for more imagination than has been displayed there in some time. There will have to be more risk taking in the accounts department, which has been handcuffed by the extremely low condition of the arena's stock.

There is grave danger that the new arena will be chased out of the fight market by the Houston Astrodome. Texas has developed a greatly increased fight interest.

*Champion

By JOHN CRUISE

MIAMI, Fla. — From the Muhammad Ali world championship menage comes the word that he will not fight again for at least six months. From Herbert Muhammad comes the announcement that henceforth he will announce fight dates for the titleholder and will take a tighter rein on management.

From Ali himself came the announcement within minutes after he left the Zaire ring that he was his own trainer. From Angelo Dundee, who ran the Ali corner, came no interview.

Did Dundee devise the strategy which left George Foreman to get himself exhausted while Muhammad rested on the ropes or in a neutral corner as Foreman's punches became weaker and weaker and left him prey to the Ali KO punch?

In any event, there is a belief that Angelo Dundee had a lot to do with Muhammad's strategy. Since there will not be another Ali fight before 1975 is nearly half gone, Angie cannot afford to sit around and ruminate for months and months. He is getting together a stable of fighters. Will Angie continue in Muhammad's corner? Will he become offended at Ali's announcement that he was his own trainer and leave the champion to train himself and form his own strategy? Perhaps Dundee does not known the answer himself.

Angie has kept himself in the background and does not discuss his association with Cassius except to praise his generosity and the friendly aspects of their relations.

Who is Angelo Dundee? When asked to do a biography for The Ring he declined. But a Florida writer, myself, dug out some dope on him.

Dundee, whose real family name is Mirena, places his ancestry in the rugged hills of Calabria below Naples in Italy. His origin in his country of birth, the U.S.A., the fighting sector of Philadelphia, meant that he either had to fight on the way up or be ready to fight.

Those of his large family who fought in the ring changed the family name to Dundee, which had the ring of a fighting name at that time. His older brother Joe used it as a tough welterweight, then brother Chris used it as a kid trainer.

Chris became one of the country's leading trainers and managers and currently is at the helm of a large boxing promotion. It was only natural that Angelo follow the footsteps of Chris.

After his military service during World War II and a short career with the Navy in Philadelphia, an employer who found cause to give him special commendation for his work, Angelo departed for the schooling grounds of New York for indoctrination as a professional boxing trainer. Guys who know their business, like Chickie Ferrara and brother Chris, acted as teachers. Angelo was a super student. He mastered the sport's techniques, the art and psychology of the ring. Soon, his proteges were performing well above their respective abilities. Angelo refined his methods and young Carmen Basilio, whom he brought to the welterweight and middleweight titles, became his classic showpiece.

While Chris Dundee advanced as one of the top promoters anywhere, Angelo created his own records as a trainer-manager. He was now well established in Miami and developed such world champions as Willie Pastrano, Luis Rodriguez, Sugar Ramos, Muhammad Ali, Ralph Dupas and Jimmy Ellis.

He performed no small chore in the acquisition of world title honors for Jose Napoles as he was rarely out of his corner on the eve of title fight nights. Not to be forgotten are the title challenges made by his fighters such as Doug Vaillant, Florentino Fernandez and Gomeo Brennan, whom he guided to the British Empire middleweight championship.

It is not official but doubtful that any ring operator who ever lived has logged as many miles as Angelo Dundee in fulfilling his ring duties. The former "Trainer of the Year" recipient has long surpassed the original globetrotter. He has worked his ring magic on every continent and from Brooklyn to Indonesia to Zaire. His name is in common usage by fight followers all over the world but his favorite haunts are still the U.S. ring centers where boxing once ruled the universe.

If Angelo remains a legendary figure in boxing it will be because of his ring exploits as a cornerman. It is said that having Angelo in your corner gives a fighter an edge going in.

There was the night in Philadelphia when Ralph Dupas was cut so badly that the ordinary "cut-man" would have been three cuts behind. The scene looked like an abattoir. Dupas didn't fight for a couple of months after that but he beat Charley Scott that night. Then there was the time that the then Cassius Clay was dropped by Henry Cooper in England and, while still on uneasy pins, found his glove torn, forcing the referee to halt the action which gave Clay additional moments to recuperate.

WILL DUNDEE BE BACK IN ALI'S CORNER WHEN HE FIGHTS AGAIN?

Victor Galindez of Argentina (right) connects with a good punch to Len Hutchins' jaw during their light heavyweight contest at Luna Park Stadium in Buenos Aires. Galindez was declared the winner when Hutchins was unable to answer the bell for the 13th round.

GALINDEZ STOPS HUTCHINS FOR WBA LIGHT HEAVY TITLE

By TIBURO GONZALEZ

BUENOS AIRES — Victor Galindez, of the Argentine, knocked out Len Hutchins, of the U.S.A., in the 13th round before a packed house.

The victory made Galindez the WBA version of the world light heavyweight champion.

Some time ago John Conteh, of Britain, became the WBC champion when he defeated Jorge Ahumada, of the Argentine, in a 15-round fight in London.

The world title remains open, following the retirement of Bob Foster of the U.S.A.

Since the WBA and WBC are at loggerheads, there appears to be little chance that Conteh and Galindez will meet.

A match between these two would go well in London, New York or Argentina, but the WBA and the WBC continue to ignore the need for a full ownership of the title, let alone the financial side of this match.

The Ring Magazine insists that Galindez and Conteh must meet to determine a full-fledged holder of the light heavy title. Neither the WBA nor the WBC has the right to pronounce a divisional winner the world title holder.

This situation is not confined to the light heavy championship. It also exists in the featherweight division.

The Galindez-Hutchins fight was a local triumph. The American made a game try but the Argentine was much the stronger fighter and sent Len to the deck twice, in the first and fourth rounds.

Len was stopped sitting on his stool in his corner. He was unable to answer the bell for the 13th round.

Hutchins was injured so badly that he had to be rushed to a hospital where he spent the night. The following day he was released and told to take it easy for a couple of months before starting training again.

A fight between Galindez and Conteh would be a big draw for a big gate and is expected to bring a big offer from Madison Square Garden in New York.

Before Foster retired as world champion the New York arena was reported to be working on a Foster-Galindez fight. There was a financial hitch when, of a sudden, the fight fell apart when Foster decided that he had had enough of the fight game. He reached that conclusion after he had been held to a draw by Ahumada, in fact, had been beaten by the Argentine light heavy.

Galindez was far too good for Hutchins but he was no Bob Foster, by any means. The Argentine did a lot of roundhouse swinging but some of this effort landed on the American. Victor suffered a cut right eye in the fourth from a butt which was purely accidental.

Hutchins suffered three knockdowns, one of which was more of a slip.

He hit the deck in the fourth, eighth and 12th.

AMATEURS TURNING PRO ALARMS OFFICIALS

Milton (Pete) Seward, a welterweight from Ohio, who was the Ohio AAU champion and Ohio Fair titleholder five straight years.

By BILL CUMMINGS, JR.

THE 1976 Olympic Games will be upon us in two years. We have the potential in boxers and coaches to develop the finest ever Olympic boxing team. However, if our young boxers (under 21) continue to turn pro at the present rate, we could be in deep trouble. As I read the various boxing periodicals that come across my desk from throughout the United States, I become alarmed by the number and rate at which our young amateurs are turning to the pro ranks, the greater majority of whom are not physically or emotionally ready for the rigors of a professional boxing career.

Amateur coaches, officials, and administrators must ban together to stem the tide. We must impress upon the professional managers and promoters the necessity for our youngsters to continue in the amateur ranks until they have reached physical and emotional maturity.

You may ask, how can we do this? We can begin by assisting the youngsters in our programs to secure meaningful employment with a future for advancement and career opportunities, placing strong emphasis on the importance of completing their high school education, enrollment in technical schools or colleges.

Coaches must take more interest in their boxers "outside tne gym". Coaches must keep close contact with the schools and parents to insure a coordinated effort in the best interest of the youth they serve.

Coaches must insist that amateur boxing promoters and administrators set aside funds from the promotions of amateur boxing events in order to establish financial aide for continuous education, provisions for a travel fund which would give the youngsters the opportunity to compete in top flight competition in various cities throughout the United States.

Finally, coaches must begin to "tell it like it is" relative to professional boxing. That the average income of a professional boxer is less than $5,000 per year, that many of the 110 boxers rated in the top ten of Ring Magazine, have net incomes annually from boxing less than $10,000.

Bill Cummings, Jr., the author of the accompanying article, is an official of the Ohio Youth Commission Recreational Services in Columbus.

The National AAU Boxing Committee, which governs amateur boxing throughout the U.S. at its convention in October at Washington, D.C., unanimously voted to ban Pro-Amateur boxing in the U.S.

For a number of years professional promoters had been permitted to have amateurs box on the same cards as professionals, providing the amateur portion of the card was sanctioned by the AAU.

In many quarters it was felt that the professional promoters were taking advantage of this arrangement by having only one or two professional fights and the remainder of the card made up of amateurs, thereby reducing his expenses. In many instances promoters and managers were inducing youngsters to turn professional. This writer feels that the AAU should be commended for taking this step as this rule change is in the best interest of amateur and professional boxing.

This writer had the great opportunity to serve as head coach of the U.S.A. 12-member boxing team which toured Russia in May, 1974. The Russian Boxing Federation were great hosts. Our delegation had the opportunity to attend the fabulous Moscow Circus which is reputed to be the finest in the world, the Bolshoi Ballet and the USA vs. USSR basketball game. During our stay in Moscow the Russian people were extremely warm and hospitable.

Our tour carried us some 10,000 miles throughout the Soviet Union. The USA team boxed in Moscow, Kislovodsk, Alma-Ata. USA boxers won 9 of 25 matches. Vonzell Johnson, middleweight (recently turned pro), Columbus, O.; Aaron Pryor, lightweight, Cincinnati, O. accounted for six of the nine wins. Both defeated the Russians three times. This was the first time this feat had been accomplished by a USA team against the USSR.

The U.S.A. team included — Albert Sandoval, 106 lbs., Pomona, California; Miguel Ayala, 112, San Antonio, Texas; Dan Hermasilo, 119, Denver, Colorado; William Berry, 125, Trenton, New Jersey; Aaron Pryor, 132, Cincinnati, O.; Ray Leonard, 139, Palmer Park, Maryland; Al Fletcher, 147, New York; John Mills, 156, New York; Russ Fickling, 178, U.S. Navy; Heavyweights — Emory Chapman, Alabama, Georgia; Clifford Stephens, Warren, Ohio.

During our three week tour of the Soviet

THE RING RANKS ALL-TIME TOP TEN IN EACH DIVISION

By DAN DANIEL

LEADING off the 1963 Ring Record Book and Encyclopedia was the late Nat Fleischer's first compilation of the Top Ten boxers in each division for all time. By "all time" he meant the glove era which set in with the Sullivan-Corbett fight in 1892.

Fleischer did not intend to convey the idea that his selections were the official choices of The Ring. But as time went along, readers of The Ring and the Record Book gained the erroneous impression that his picks represented those of The Ring.

As the 1970s came in readers of The Ring became increasingly insistent that the magazine get up its exclusive Top Tens.

This request, which now has become a demand, gained in impetus through debate concerning The Ring's rating of Muhammad Ali, Cassius Clay, as he was known when he won the world heavyweight title from Sonny Liston.

When plans for this special issue of The Ring were discussed by the staff it was determined that the time had come to publish the magazine's exclusive and official Top Tens. There ensued long hours of debate.

The discussions ran from one week into another and still the selection group continued to wrangle and fight it out.

At long last the raters came up with the desired 80 names, ten in each of the standard divisions.

The heavyweights developed the most vehement discussion. Three of the candidates brought on the strongest debate. They were Joe Louis and Muhammad Ali.

Finally it was determined that the big men were to be rated like this:

1, Joe Louis; 2, Jack Dempsey; 3, Jim Jeffries; 4, Jack Johnson; 5, Rocky Marciano; 6, Gene Tunney; 7, Bob Fitzsimmons; 8, Jim Corbett; 9, Muhammad Ali; 10, Joe Frazier.

It is interesting that Fleischer saw them like this in 1963:

1, Jack Johnson; 2, Jim Jeffries; 3, Bob Fitzsimmons; 4, Jack Dempsey; 5, Jim Corbett; 6, Joe Louis; 7, Sam Langford; 8, Gene Tunney; 9, Max Schmeling; 10, Rocky Marciano.

Tony Petronelli hits the canvas in the fourth round of his contest with Benny Huertas which was held in a Boston television studio. Petronelli overcame the knockdown, however, and won a unanimous 10-round decision to retain his U.S. junior welterweight crown.

PUNCH LINES

WANTS ANOTHER FOREMAN-ALI FIGHT

I laid odds on Foreman in Zaire and I would back him again, at evens, if they were to fight again. The Zaire fight did not show George at his true worth as a fighter. He was not in shape and he was ill advised. He needs a new corner. Insofar as Ali was concerned, it was a three punch fight, the KO and the combination that preceded it. Until then, Muhammad wasn't in the fight. Neither was Foreman, who let himself get exhausted in an exhausting locale. Let George get a break.

Henry Hellstrom
Baton Rouge, La.

THE FEATHERWEIGHT SITUATION

Alexis Arguello, of Nicaragua, stopped Ruben Olivares, a pretty good trick whether Ruben trained or did not train. But in the interest of humanity, please do not let them match Arguello with Bobby Chacon. The outlander would be injured badly. Arguello is a good fighter but he is not ready for Chacon, even if Alex did stop Olivares. I would like to see the featherweight situation cleared up. You are right in demanding that the WBA and WBC champions meet for the world title. But don't ask them to meet just yet. It would be dangerous.

Levi Gamling
Los Angeles, Calif.

Editor's Note — Experts who saw Arguello stop Olivares tell us that Alex is fully competent to take care of himself even against Chacon. This meeting must come and it should not be delayed.

ANOTHER IDEA ON FEATHERS

I believe that The Ring should declare Bobby Chacon the featherweight champion and force Arguello, the new contender, to come to him. It is a shame that a title like the featherweight should remain open month after month. It does the division a lot of harm. I think that The Ring has enough power and influence to force a settlement of the dispute, aside from the fact that Chacon is the best feather in the world.

Tim Kendall
Los Angeles, Calif.

"EXPERTS? THE BUNK"

There was a time when we had fight experts all over the country. But the breed is extinct. The so-called experts who led the bettors into giving odds in support of Foreman did not know their business. It was a case of a student, and a clumsy one, against a master, and a crafty one, and the student was left on his way to school. Anybody who had watched Foreman before he hit Frazier with one of the knockdown punches knew that Foreman was not yet a graduate student.

Gil Daley
New York, N.Y.

NO JERSEY ROOTER HE

New Jersey is against boxing. New Jersey is against football. New Jersey is against baseball. New Jersey is against progress. It is a state where people go to sleep. I find the state retrogressive and am moving to Florida. New Jersey has no boxing worth a dime and is losing a lot of taxes, publicity and entertainment for boxing fans. It is difficult to believe that New Jersey is where Dempsey knocked out Carpentier. But that was in the days of Hague. Wake up, New Jersey!

Tom Geraghty
Elizabeth, N.J.

NEW YORK TAX MESS

I have written to Mayor Beame, of New York, and the new administration in Albany, to get together and save boxing in Madison Square Garden. The tax imposed by the state is intolerable. A new deal was arranged not too long ago but the then governor, Wilson, vetoed the bill. Wilson got paid off for his stupidity. Carey is a crafty politician and he is not likely to repeat the blunder. Boxing is not super important in the New York economy but it brings a lot of spenders into New York and deserves to be treated accordingly. More than 14,000,000 persons visit New York annually. Especially in these times, that fiscal fact must be respected. Beame and Carey have got to save major boxing in the Garden.

Harry Friedman
New York, N.Y.

GRIFFITH IN A REMATCH?

I have been a Griffith fan these many years and I am not quitting him because of a fluke. Give Emile a rematch and he takes Antuofermo by three rounds in a ten. Griffith underrated the foreigner. He would not be guilty again. Let us have them together again in Madison Square Garden for a real fight. Two tickets first row ringside for my wife and me, please.

Robert Wellfleet
Manhasset, N.Y.

ALI AN ALL-TIME MASTER?

I did not want to see smart aleck Ali beat Foreman. But beat him he did, with one punch, after letting George get completely exhausted. I have to hand it to Muhammad. He is one of the Big Ten heavies of all time and nobody can deny it. He is a crafty fighter and when he says, "I am my own trainer" he is telling the truth. He does not need a trainer. He knows Ali better than anybody else knows him. When you pick the Top Ten, as you say you will, you will not be able to overlook Cassius Clay.

Llwellyn G. Haney
San Francisco, Calif.

ANOTHER CALL TO BEAME-CAREY

The matter of saving boxing in New York is not too small for Mayor Beame to become involved in. He has to get together with new Governor Carey and settle the matter of taxes on incoming fighters. Outgoing Governor Wilson stuck his nose where it was not wanted and I, for one, voted him out. But for his veto of the revised tax bill I would have supported him. Many other fight fans voted the same way. Wilson should have known better than to alienate thousands of fight fans.

Anthony Delagrazzia
Albany, N.Y.

PRAISE FOR THE TV

I would like to use your magazine as a medium for praising the people who had charge of sending the African fight over TV. It came to us in a Chicago theatre clear and fine, better than most of the showings I have witnessed from nearer spots. The thing can be done right and future TV technicians have the Zaire example to work toward. However, I agree strongly with Bill Brennan of the WBA that TV is chewing up boxing. And how!

George Kleinman
Cicero, Ill.

JUDGES MISJUDGED GRIFFITH

I saw Griffith lose to Antuofermo. There was no doubt that the Italian won the fight. But from the scores of the judges you would think that Emile got a terrific lacing. Not so, and I am surprised at the way some of the writers took it. Griffith put up a creditable fight. To say that he is over the hill would be a serious injustice to the man. He has made a fight of every match in which he has appeared for 17 years and he should not be degraded now that he no longer looks like a champion. As for Antuofermo, his handlers would do well not to rush him, on the basis of his beating Griffith.

By SAM TAUB

"SALUTE to Friday's Heroes" turned out to be quite a bash at the Downtown Athletic Club. The affair was held in conjunction with the annual handball dinner at the club and was quite a turnout with many pugilistic stars of yesteryear present. Willie Pep and his co-author of "Friday's Heroes," Bob Sacchi, surrounded by many of our past boxing heroes and other celebrities, will long remember the wonderful evening they had. It was a fine piece of showmanship by Rudy Riska, Director of Athletics.

Notables from the boxing world, besides Pep, were Coley Wallace, former Golden Glove heavyweight champion, Charley Fusari, Joe Miceli, Steve Belloise and Billy Graham, as well as Bill Gallo, Daily News sports cartoonist, who is also president of the Boxing Writers Association and head of the National Cartoonists Society. All those named, as well as Yours Truly, were given awards for contribution to the Queensberry game. Also from boxing was Sam Markowitz, junior welterweight in his era and Community Mayor of the 15th District, Brooklyn. Present was Edwin B. Dooley, All-America great from Dartmouth and N.Y. State Athletic Commission Chairman.

Other dignitaries from sportsdom present were Dick Long, president of the New York A.C.; John Menna, Director of Sports Activities of the N.Y.A.C.; Ray Lumpp, Olympic Gold Medal winner and former Knickerbocker star, also from the N.Y.A.C.; Dr. Max Novich, Olympic doctor and former National A.A.U. state boxing champion; Bill Stein, Georgia Tech All-America and Director of the Sales Executive Club; Jack Stroud, N.Y. Giants All-League guard; John Hill, N.Y. Giants center; Irv Cross, former All-League halfback of the Philadelphia Eagles and Los Angeles Rams and publisher Lloyd Berdy of the Brooklyn Spectator.

Added feature were movies of many of our past championships and near title contests.

Speaking of the Downtown A.C., one of the invited guests was Matt Murphy, whose father Charles came from Donegal, Ireland, and was a trainer who worked with Paddy Mullins' Boston welterweight, Johnny Indrisano. Incidentally, Murphy lived with Indrisano, who later went to California, when the Hub gladiator gave up his fistic career and became associated with the Hollywood movies.

One of the likeable chaps on the staff of the New York State Athletic Commission is Petey Della, who has had an outstanding career from his days as a boxer. He has had a tremendous career in sports and outside. From his early days Petey was a devotee of boxing. Born on March 7, 1915, Della, for years has been a standout referee in the Empire State. He's had a varied career. Petey, as a boxer, was the Kings County bantamweight leader from 1932 to 1934. He whipped several Golden Glove champions, among them Richard Librandi, Joe Wall, Morris Parker, Frankie Castro, Tony Louisi, Ralph Napoli and Julie Katz. As a pro he claims wins over Lew Sierra, Harold Valan, Jackie Page, Bill Hill and also clashed with Joey Fontana at the Ridgewood Grove.

Della's connections with various organizations are too numerous to go into. Affiliated with Democratic clubs, former director of the Catholic Youth Organization, member of the PAL, executive director of the Petey Della Association, you name it he's been with it. He's also a successful businessman, owner of the Petey Della Restaurant and Cocktail Lounge.

Della, whose right monicker is Iacono, is as sprightly as ever and would like as a crowning ambition to further his status with the N.Y. State Commission as either a Deputy Commissioner or Chief Boxing Inspector.

We have known Della for many years and know he's highly esteemed among the fistic gentry. He's married to the former Grace Klein. The Dellas have four children and nine grandchildren and live at 117 Nassau Avenue, Brooklyn, N.Y.

The passing of the former heavyweight champion of the world, James J. Braddock, boxing's "Cinderella Man", came as a shock. We who had such close contact with him always admired him for his fine qualities as a human being. Broadcasting some of his fights we can't forget the thrill when he pulled the Tommy Farr fight in the 8th Avenue Garden out of the fire with a sensational ninth and tenth round finish.

The saga of Braddock is well known, his trials and tribulations, his comeback, his kayo of Tuffy Griffiths, touted as a possible second Jack Dempsey, in two rounds, and another comeback in the Madison Square Garden Bowl when he got off the floor to kayo Corn Griffin; then his great wins in the 8th Avenue Garden over John Henry Lewis and Art Lasky, which led to his capturing the heavyweight diadem from Max Baer in the Garden Bowl.

How can you forget the grand guy from across the Hudson River? He was, to say the least, fantastic.

JIMMY BRADDOCK, 1905-1974

By JOHN ORT

JAMES J. (Jimmy) Braddock, who won the heavyweight championship of the world at the age of 30, died recently in his home at North Bergen, N.J. at age 68.

Braddock won the title from Max Baer on points in a 15-round contest in the Madison Square Garden Bowl, the jinx of title holders. He lost the championship to Joe Louis in Chicago in 1937.

The Cinderella Man of boxing, as he came to be called, was no better than 10 to 1 in the betting when he faced Baer on June 13, 1935. There was virtually no betting in Jimmy's support when he encountered Louis on June 22, 1937. He decked Joe in the first round.

Braddock was the third native of New York City to achieve the heavyweight title during the glove era which opened with the Corbett-Sullivan fight in 1892. Gene Tunney of Greenwich Village, and Floyd Patterson, of Brooklyn, were the other Gotham-born heavyweight champions.

It is safe to say that Jimmy Braddock had the most arduous approach to the heavyweight title that may be found in the history of the game.

This was a man with a family who had to go on the public dole. This was a fighter who encountered the most desperate efforts to gain even a meagre living in the unhappy days of the depression.

The Braddocks had to live on the small pittance of the limited welfare funds of the depression period.

Fights came far and few between. There was no strong demand for the fistic services of James J. Braddock. He took a job on the docks.

Then came the first decent break of Jim's life, a two-round KO over Corn Griffin, whom promoter Jimmy Johnston had been grooming for big things.

Joe Louis was coming along fast and there had to be a man to contest his progress.

Mike Jacobs had in mind a fight for Max Baer, who had knocked out Primo Carnera for the title. Baer needed a warmup contest and the man who had stopped Griffin stood out as a candidate for the job. Braddock also defended John Henry Lewis and Art Lasky.

The idea in Mike's mind was that Baer would knock out Braddock and then Maxie would invade Chicago to have it out with Louis. Here was something else again. The heavyweight champion whom Louis was to fight no longer was Baer, the Playboy of the Western World.

When Mike Jacobs called in Braddock to sign for the Louis fight, Joe Gould, Jim's manager, accompanied the titleholder.

It apparently was with no tremendous confidence in his ability to beat Joe that Braddock entered the conference with the promoter.

To safeguard his financial future, Braddock forced Louis to accept the most bizarre arrangement in the history of the sport.

Said Joe Gould, a crafty young man, "Jim will fight Louis if Joe will guarantee him ten percent of his earnings for the next ten years."

Jacobs and Louis contended that if the story of the ten percent ever got out the authenticity of the fight would become doubtful.

But Gould and Braddock refused to be budged. Jim had the whip hand. He had the title which Louis wanted and Mike needed for the pursuit of his business.

The length of the ten percent arrangement never was disclosed. But it lasted long enough to assure Braddock of $75,000 and the certainty that never again would James J. Braddock, his wife and kids, live off welfare money.

Just how much Gould got for himself would not be revealed by Jim when he was interviewed in The Ring office a couple of years ago.

James J. Braddock was the most diffident man who ever held the heavyweight title.

Quiet, unassuming, adhering tenaciously to his privacy, never assuming the role of an elder statesman of heavyweight history, Braddock was no after-dinner speaker, no responder to the oft repeated question," "How did you do it?" The fact was, Jim did not know how he had done it, except that he had trained hard, that he had gone into the ring with Baer with high respect for Maxie's punch, and the certainty that he would excel the defending champion in condition and hunger.

Braddock was a consummate boxer and he stuck to that skill, seldom trying to trade punches with the man from California.

It was no secret that Baer was a playboy

AMATEURS TURNING PRO ALARMS OFFICIALS

Union, I was extremely proud of the way in which our boxers conducted themselves. They were great ambassadors for our country. The moral and team spirit was great. Much of the credit should go to Vonzell Johnson, who did an exceptional job as our team captain.

I am looking forward to our forthcoming meeting with the Russians, as they will box our national team January 18, 1975 at Caesar's Palace, Las Vegas, January 21 at Chicago, and January 25 at St. Louis.

Q & A QUESTIONS ANSWERS

Q. The Ring says that Foreman did not take to training for the Ali fight. Yet he weighed in at 220 pounds, accepted as his fighting weight. How come the notion that he did not take to training?

John J. Routledge
Toronto, Canada

A. The fighting weight does not always indicate how well a boxer accepted training. The way in which Foreman became exhausted as early as the fourth round indicated that his body had not accepted the training regimen in difficult surroundings.

Q. My grandfather says that Corbett was ahead of Fitzsimmons on points when Fitz knocked him out at Carson in 1897. I always was led to believe that Fitz was the man in front.

Harry Kleinert
Los Angeles, Calif.

A. Before the KO, Corbett, the superior boxer, was ahead of Fitzsimmons on points.

Q. Was there ever a world championship fight in any division, other than the Ali-Foreman affair, held in any part of Africa other than South Africa?

Lion Mllaghi
Johannesburg, S.A.

A. No, there was not.

Q. Every now and then I read in your London report something about "nobbins." What are they?

Ms. Fritzie Hayman
Boston, Mass.

A. When the spectators like a fight very much and want to tell the fighters how much they enjoyed it they throw coins, sometimes even bills, into the ring. The money is called "nobbins." Customary in South Africa as well as Britain.

Q. Is the retirement of Bob Foster official?

John G. Hammersmith
Birmingham, Ala.

A. Yes, it is official. The Ring has dropped him from its ratings.

Q. The judges in the Griffith-Antuofermo fight gave the Italian a big edge in the scoring. A reporter for a New York paper wrote that Griffith finished ahead on points. How did The Ring vote?

Barney Klepper
Scranton, Pa.

A. The reporter for The Ring wrote that Griffith unquestionably had been beaten, but not by the margin turned in by the two judges.

Q. In the old days fighters trained for 25-round contests. Now champions defend at 15 rounds. How is it possible to compare the boxers of the old days with those of today? I believe a comparison is impossible. Yes?

William Harding Gross
New Orleans, La.

A. There is much to your way of thinking. The contrasting styles of fighting are marked, too. The oldtimers knew little or nothing about combinations. The bare knuckles, as a class, were not classic in method.

Q. I met Jimmy Braddock not too long ago and he looked strong and robust. Now he is dead at only 68. What was the cause of death?

Jerry Gabel
Jersey City, N.J.

A. Stories about Jimmy's demise said he had been the victim of natural causes. He underwent heart strain on the docks and as a trucker. It is presumed that this was the ultimate cause of his death.

Q. I have read stories which had it that both Max Baer and Joe Choynski were of Jewish descent. I also have read that neither had any Jewish blood in him. Which version is correct?

Bratislav Kowalsky
Lodi, N.J.

A. Insofar as Ring investigation has been able to determine, neither Baer nor Choynski was of substantial Jewish descent.

Q. The Ring has assured its readers that in 52 years it has not missed getting out a monthly issue. Is this record equalled by any other sports publication?

Farley Thomas
London, England

A. No other magazine dealing with sports has a matching record. It was not easy to make publishing dates on time in depression times. But The Ring never failed, thanks to Nat Fleischer.

Jean-Claude Bouttier of France (left) jabs lightly on Kevin Finnegan's head but Finnegan proved the better man as he took Bouttier's European middleweight crown from him at Paris last May.

Kevin Finnegan Is Truly An Artist

By RON OLVER

LONDON, Eng. — The date was May 5, 1967. The event was the 79th British Amateur Boxing Association Championships at Wembley Pool. Thousands of fans at ringside, plus millions on television, were watching the middleweight final between Londoner Chris Finnegan, the holder, and Welshman Allan Ball.

The judges' verdict, by a majority, went to Ball. And then it seemed as if all hell were let loose.

Fights broke out among rival supporters, not on a large scale, thank goodness, but this was something new to amateur boxing in Britian. A blond wig was hurled into the ring as the following contest was being announced.

That wasn't all. During the interval between the second and third rounds of the following contest, a youth, clad in wide trousers, black and white shoes and a coloured coat, jumped into the ring and proceeded to shadow box.

Officials climbed up after him and he was ushered from the ring. He was obviously a Finnegan fan. In fact, he was rather more than that. He was Chris's younger brother, Kevin. Yes, the same Kevin Finnegan who won the European middleweight title by outpointing Frenchman Jean Claude Bouttier.

Looking back on that night in 1967, Kevin confesses he had worn the blond wig for a bet, and it was he who tossed it into the ring as a protest at the verdict going against brother Chris.

But the Amateur Boxing Association doesn't take kindly to incidents of this nature and Kevin was suspended sine die. This seriously affected his own amateur career, for he had a lot of talent.

But from then on things didn't go according to plan. He was out of the game for about 18 months, and, even when he returned to the ring, he failed to catch the selectors' eyes when teams were selected for representative matches.

It was no real surprise when Kevin turned professional, but no trumpets either. The fans and the press were more concerned about the exploits of older brother Chris, who in 1968 won a Gold Medal at the Mexico Olympics, and turned professional in December of that year.

So, by the time Kevin decided to punch for pay, Chris already held the Southern Area light heavyweight title, had boxed unsuccessfully for the European middleweight crown, and was on the verge of boxing for the British and Commonwealth light heavyweight championships.

The younger Finnegan was thus very much in the shadow of his older brother, and that's the way it has been ever since—until now.

It was shrewd and experienced manager Sam Burns, the man who guided Terry Downes to the world middleweight crown, who signed Chris, and turned him from a counter-punching southpaw to a crowd-pleaser, who in 1972 boxed Bob Foster for the world title.

Could Sam do the same for Kevin? The latter's career proceeded along normal lines. He won fights without setting the Thames on fire, but the ingredients were there. From December, 1970, he chalked up six straight wins before losing to Ronnie Hough on an eye injury.

Two more victories, the last over experienced Pat Dwyer, and Kevin was matched with tough Harry Scott (who once beat Rubin Carter) in an official eliminator for the British middleweight crown. Kevin won on points.

This was in February, 1972, and less than two months later, Kevin outpointed Eric Blake in another eliminator, which was also for the Southern Area title. It was another points win. The following month he took part in a final eliminator and lost to Don McMillan on an eye injury.

So it was to be quite a while before he climbed into the ring to tackle champion Bunny Sterling for the British title.

Although Kevin had achieved a great deal of success, the talk was all about Chris's forthcoming contest with Foster, and no one was talking louder than Kevin. He was Chris's staunchest supporter. In fact the Finnegan family are a very close band.

Six sons and two daughters were born to Patrick and Bridget Finnegan, Terence, Tony, Christopher, Michael, Kevin, Paul, Patricia and Celia.

Father Patrick died in 1972, age 64. He died believing that Chris had won the European title, which was what the latter had told him. Actually Chris did win it after that. Patrick was born in Liverpool, was a policeman for 12 years at Uxbridge, and had received awards for bravery.

Mother Bridget is 63, and definitely not a fight fan. She has never watched one, not even on television, but when pushed for an opinion says she prefers the amateur code and its distance of three rounds.

She doesn't like the professional method, with its longer distances, and therefore more chances of boxers getting hurt. Bridget was a trained nurse, an excellent profession what with eight youngsters to bring up.

So it's back to Kevin Finbar Finnegan,

CHARLEY ROSE, 1886-1974

By SAM TAUB

This photo of Charley Rose was taken on the battlefield at Verdun, France, in 1918. He was with the First Division of the AEF for 20 months. Charley, the first boxing figure to enlist, captured several German soldiers.

(Above) Broadway Charley, as he was known to his friends, in a photo taken in 1970. (Left) Charley as a young boxer before he took up managing and promoting.

GENIAL, kindly, 88-year-old Charley Rose, is gone. He was determined to make at least next March 4. He prided himself on the fact that he was born on the same day that the Statue of Liberty was dedicated — March 4, 1886. But the Doughboy of World War One fought in vain. He died in his hotel room in New York from inhalation of smoke. He had accidentally set fire to his room while smoking a cigar.

Charley Rose was involved with the careers of some of the greatest fighters of U.S. boxing.

He had a share in Max Schmeling before the Uhlan became the world champion. He managed many boxers who left indelible imprints on American fistic history.

But, most of all, was his kindly, friendly attitude toward life.

Charley Rose was a real old timer. But he was not one of those ancients of boxing who kept telling us that "those were the good old days, when boxers were great both in skill and in power."

Charley was eager to give the fighters of today their just dues and honors.

When it came to the old days, Charley was at his best with stories of personal contacts with fighters and fight people who made interesting telling about.

Rose had serious trouble with his eyes in his later years. But he never failed to make his way up and down Broadway, jostling passersby but always coming up with a smile. Rose never failed to visit The Ring offices a few times a week, Summer and Winter, rain or shine.

"Please," he pleaded. "Please do not let my name die out. I have loved boxing all my life and I don't want boxing to rub the name of Charley Rose off its list of close pals."

On his final visit to The Ring, Rose talked about the smaller men of the old days.

"Things have changed in this country," Rose said. "The heavyweights have swallowed up the game. If you aren't a heavy, you don't belong.

"Some of the oldtime little guys contributed heavily to the fame and history of the game. Now they shoo them down to the Forum in the Garden.

"The prettiest fight between smaller men was between Abe Attell and Jem Driscoll, the Englishman, in February, 1906, in New York. It was the classic of all time. They fought ten rounds to no decision, as New York did not permit verdicts in those days. Maybe Jem won, maybe Abe had the better of it. But who won did not matter. It was the skill and the craft which these masters displayed. And when I say that Abe and Jem won the medals I say a lot because I give them the call over Attell's fights with Owen Moran, another Briton.

"Whom did I like the best among the heavyweights? Where do I place Muhammad Ali?

"I am not one of those good old days guys but I also am not one of the veterans who has lost his memory and doesn't remember the great fights we had in the days of old.

"Studying strength, ability, punching power, stamina to fight hard all the way to the end of the 25th round, I think that Jim Jeffries was the king.

"I cried when I read what Jack Johnson did to Jeff in his comeback against the black

IN SUNNY CALIFORNIA

NICARAGUAN ARGUELLO UPSETS OLIVARES WITH KO IN 13TH

By DON FRASER

INGLEWOOD, Calif.—Alexis Arguello, a rail-thin sharp-shooter from Nicaragua, came up with a surprise ending to the World Boxing Assn. featherweight championship fight at the Forum.

Just when it appeared the champion from Mexico City, Ruben Olivares, was ready to claim his 77th victim in his first title defense, Arguello knocked him out.

Arguello, making his first start outside of Central America, won the WBA 126-pound championship with a stunning 13th round knockout before a roaring crowd of 14,313—which contributed a gross gate of $186,210.

The moustachioed 5-9 challenger, behind on points despite winning the first five rounds, fired a short, crisp left hook at 1:08 of the 13th and Olivares, who also scored with a left almost simultaneously, went down as if he'd been shot.

The 27-year-old champion's mouthpiece went flying from the impact, and referee Dick Young had to be advised by Olivares of its presence on the canvas. Olivares, noticeably dazed by the punch, regained his feet before the count of 10 but additional seconds were lost in replacing the mouthpiece.

Moments later the 22-year-old Arguello won the title when he again floored Olivares with a series of blows to the head. Olivares rolled over and was counted out. The official time was 1:20 of the 13th.

"Olivares hurt me in the eighth, ninth and 10th rounds," Arguello said through an interpreter. "I felt like I might go down in the 10th."

During intermission between the 10th and 11th, manager Adan Gaitan advised Arguello to jab more and to press his opponent. "I told him he was behind on points," the manager said.

Gaitan hadn't examined the scorecards at that point, but he was right, according to two officials. At the end, Young had Olivares ahead, 8-3 and judge Larry Rozadilla agreed, 6-4. The other judge, George Latka, had the scheduled 15-rounder even.

Olivares, who has been stopped four times while scoring 69 knockouts and losing only five fights, started lethargically. The champion, seemingly content to assume a defensive role at the outset, backpedaled and threw only occasional, ineffective punches for the first few rounds.

Arguello, who recorded his 39th win against three losses and registered his 37th KO, was not too impressive in the early going either. However, he was aggressive and pinned the former bantamweight champion on the ropes frequently.

Impatient fans eager for action, witnessed a slow fight until the fifth, when Arguello connected with a number of long range blows while on the attack.

Arguello, looking undernourished at the surprisingly light weight of 124½, began losing ground going into the sixth.

Olivares, making his 17th appearance at the Forum, stimulated the crowd in the sixth with some snappy shots to the head, and by the seventh, the familiar "May-he-co" chant was heard.

Alexis Arguello of Nicaragua sends Ruben Olivares to the canvas during the 12th round of their contest at Inglewood, Calif. Arguello, who stopped Olivares in the 13th, thus captured the WBA featherweight crown from the Mexican boxer.

But, the stringbean from Managua was not without his boosters and when Arguello gave Nicaragua its first boxing champion ever it was pandemonium.

Toward the end of the seventh, possibly the most exciting round except for the 13th, both fighters were engaged in an all-out head-to-head assault that had fans on their feet, cheering vigorously.

Olivares gained the better of the exchange that must have lasted 20 seconds, but he also received a slight cut over his left eye, which proved inconsequential.

Olivares, 125½, continued to gain momentum as Arguello lost the attack that got him off to a commanding early lead. By the 13th, the gutty little champion was well on his way to victory.

The ex-champion, smiling and affable as always, was greeted in his dressing room by the new titleholder, who called Olivares "his idol."

Arguello agreed to give Olivares a rematch, and the Forum promoters hopes to stage the return early next year. However, Arguello already has a commitment to fight Leonel Hernandez of Venezuela.

In other action, Sigfrido Rodriguez, 128½, fared better than did his stablemate, Olivares. Rodriguez knocked out Mario Martinez, 127½, at 2:17 of the fifth round of a scheduled 10 rounder. Rodriguez is Arguello's stablemate.

Mexico City's Carlos Zarate, 118½, remained undefeated by scoring his 28th KO in 29 fights when he stopped James Martinez,

QUARRY OVER SOTO, THEN CAME RIOTSVILLE

By SAM TAUB

MIKE QUARRY, Houston, was given a unanimous eight round decision over Pedro Soto, from Puerto Rico, in the final 1974 show at the Felt Forum and then a riot broke loose.

Bottles and other matter started to fly through the air and into the ring. The ringsiders beat a hasty retreat under the ring or to a safe place. City police then came into the picture and finally, the beligerents even carried their destruction to the outside.

The Felt Forum has been noted for its riots and this just added another chapter to its history.

As for the fight, Quarry, the seasoned one with 53 fights behind him, was the favorite to defeat his younger opponent, with only a 9-0-1 pro record.

Matters didn't quite turn out that way. There never was much difference between the men at any stage but it was Soto, who started fast, cut his man over the left eye in the fourth round, who was the surprise.

Both men furnished frequent exchanges. It was a lively affair. Referee Johnny LoBianco was kept stepping. It was a see-saw affair, both men landing frequently, a good scrap.

Soto, the underdog, surprised with his left jab and rights. Quarry, with his experience, had the ring savvy but he needed all of it. As a matter of fact, he needed to capture the last round on our score card to deserve a draw, but the officials all favored Jerry's brother.

Referee LoBianco and judge Artie Aidala both scored it 5-3 and judge Leo Dazzo turned in a 6-2 slip, all for Quarry.

That's when the fans again broke loose.

The show attracted the biggest gate ever at the Felt Forum, 3,028 paying $18,181.83.

Only one of the preliminaries went the distance. Ruben Figueroa, San Juan, P.R., 176, kayoed Kenny Jones, New Haven, 169, the loser being counted out by referee Barney Smith at 1:19 of the third round. A right and left to the jaw turned the trick.

Bobby Alexander, from Brooklyn, knocked down for an eight count in the first round, rallied and won handily from Hector Espinosa, Dominican Republic, a pair of 131 pounders, on a unanimous duke.

Nick Ortiz, of Cidra, P.R., scored a 59 seconds kayo over Curtis Phillips, New York, each 148, as the winner registered a knockdown in round four and referee Barney Smith calling it off as Phillips was being clobbered.

In four, Ali Perez, New York, 160, made a quickie of it over Melvin Cherry, Newark, N.J., 166, the end coming at 2:57 of round one. Referee LoBianco intervened. Cherry was first dropped by a left hook for an eight count and then was being pummeled.

▲The Benitez brothers, products of Puerto Rico, are becoming outstanding performers around here as they sweep doubleheaders in the Felt Forum. Not so much that they win but the way they accomplish their chores. Two eight round bouts and our score card showed them winning fifteen of the heats with one even. The paid attendance was 1,159 and the gate receipts $7,120.50.

Wilfred Benitez, a 145 pounder, who faced a newcomer to these parts by the name of Larry Hafey, out of Stellarton, Nova Scotia, 147, a rugged individual who could take it the way George Chuvalo did in his heyday. Arthur Mercante, who refereed this one, had no difficulty as the boys swapped exchanges. We should say it was Benitez firing from all angles, and a gallant toe-to-toe exchange in the final chapter.

Hafey proved he could take it and tried hard with his wild swinging but Benitez was like a piece of oiled-up machinery as, time and again, he bombarded his man with both hands.

When it was over referee Mercante and judge Bernie Friedkin had it 6-2 while the other judge, Tony Castellano, had it 8-0. The Ring reporter had it 7-0-1, with the first stanza even.

As for the Frankie Benitez, 136½, scrap with Bobby Hughes, 139, which resulted in another win in their second meeting. Despite the fact that Frankie ran a fever following the weigh-in, he also won by a wide margin, albeit the winner didn't press because of his physical condition.

Hughes is a willing lad but he couldn't cope with his adversary, who had his man assimilating good punches in the second and seventh rounds.

Paul Venti, the Jerseyman who refereed this bout and also handled the four preliminaries, had it 7-0-1, judge Castellano 6-2 and judge Friedkin, 7-1, The Ring had it a shutout.

In a pair of sixes, Ruby Ortiz, of Salinas, P.R., 131, kayoed Salvador Ramirez, Santiago, Cuba, 130, a right to the jaw ending the fireworks, the count-out taking place after 59 seconds of the third round, while Ray Hammond, from New York, scored a majority win over Jerry Holmes, Newark, each scaling 148.

Two fours rounded out the card. Local Patrick Maloney, 146, gained a unanimous duke over Hugo Velasquez, Jersey City, N.J., 145, while Jaime DeLavega, from Caguas, P.R., 185, outroughed Bob Crustison, Mount Vernon, 198½.

▲Eddie Gregory, Jack Singer's hard hitting Brooklyn middleweight, won a thriller from Mario Rosa, from Paterson, N.J., in the Felt Forum. Twice Eddie got off the canvas to starch his southpaw warrior with a terrific right to the jaw. Referee Johnny Colan tolled the fatal ten with but two seconds of the eighth round left. The official time was 2:58. It was slated for ten.

The bad weather held the crowd down to 1,215 with a slim gate of $5,939.40. Those who missed the fireworks really lost out.

For five rounds, Gregory, standing in straight-up fashion, jabbing with lefts and shooting rights, kept his opponent on the defensive. In the fourth round, Eddie even tried the Ali shuffle.

Then havoc set in and possible loss. Rosa, a gutsy one, started his own cannonading in the sixth round and Gregory suddenly found himself on deck from a left and right to the jaw for a count of nine.

In the seventh, the Jerseyman, tearing in, again nailed him, this time with a left hook to the jaw, and Gregory was down for nine and barely missed the count-out.

Pandemonium reigned as the eighth started. Gregory here showed his ability to take it and come back when he slugged it out and nailed Rosa with a right to the jaw which knocked his man down hard. Came the count and his being kayoed as referee Colan counted ten.

Oddly enough, Colan had it 6-1 and judge Sam Irom 4-3 for Rosa, while judge Ellsworth Simley had it 5-2 for Gregory, coinciding with The Ring tally. The weights were: Gregory, 161, Rosa, 159¾ pounds.

The scheduled eight round semi-windup, a middleweight go-between Chris Black, from Jamaica, N.Y., 155, and Jose Anglada, Dominican Republic, 160, produced a 2:12 kayo in the first round. Black, a puncher, dropped his man for an eight count with a left hook and then tore in. A left hook to the nose finished Anglada as referee Vinnie Rainone tolled the ten.

Two sixes went the distance. Nelson Alfonso, Aguadlia, P.R., 141½, won via a unanimous duke over Guelo Hernandez, Dominican Republic, 145.

Maximo Pierret, Dominican Republic, captured a majority win over Curtis Phillips, from New York, in a so-so affair, neither man doing much damage. Each scaled 148.

In four, Joey Hadley, from Memphis, Tenn., 159, scored a first round 2:49 TKO over Pepe Ortiz, Santa Isabella, 161, loser being down twice before Dr. Edwin Campbell signalled referee Vinnie Rainone to intervene.

The other four also was ordered stopped by Dr. Campbell. It saw Marcos Baharona, from Managua, Nicaruaga, 133¾, victor over Jimmy McCloud, Brooklyn, 129, McCloud being outclassed and in trouble.

MARTINEZ WINS WBC BANTAMWEIGHT TITLE

MERIDA, Mexico — There was a fight for the world bantam title here recently and a good fight it was, while it lasted.

Merida's Rodolfo Martinez stopped losing champion Rafael Herrera, also of Mexico, with 30 seconds of the fourth round left.

This fight was for the WBC version of the bantam crown.

Never before had there been a titular contest in the Yucatan capital. The locale was the bullring.

The WBA version of the bantie title is owned by Soo Hwan Hong, whom The Ring recognizes.

This is yet another of the far too many cases of double champions.

ALBERTO LOVELL'S "FIGHT" WITH BUGNER HUGE JOKE

By RON OLVER

LONDON, ENGLAND — European heavyweight champion Joe Bugner, 223½, stopped substitute Argentinian Alberto Lovell, 199, at 2 min. 15 sec. of the second round. But behind that result is a story of frustration for promoter Mike Barrett, matchmaker Mickey Duff, and the fans who turned up to watch.

American Boone Kirkman was the original opponent for Bugner, and he arrived in London over a week before the fight accompanied by his fiancee. True, he had a bruised cheek and a sore nose, the result of training with Joe Frazier, but he had a medical clearance certificate. So there was no reason to suppose that he was not fit enough to fight.

Then, just two days before the contest date, he had an X-ray which revealed that his nose was broken. So he had to pull out.

This put the ball fairly and squarely in the court of Messrs. Barrett and Duff. There was the added attraction of world heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali, who was not only going to be present at the show, but was scheduled to do a 15-minute talk-cum-question-answer act, also the inter-round summaries on the BBC radio commentary of the fight.

Duff afterwards denied that the appearance of Ali had anything to do with the decision to obtain a substitute instead of cancelling. "We did it because the show must go on," he said.

The problem was to obtain a suitable substitute in less than 48 hours. In Europe at the time was Alberto Lovell, who earlier in the year had knocked out former European champion Jose Urtain of Spain. Urtain didn't recover for eight minutes.

Lovell is 32, but his record of having stopped 25 opponents in 33 wins out of 45 fights looked reasonable, but he had been stopped nine times, and among those who had stopped him were Jose Luis Garcia, stopped by Bugner in two, and Miguel Paez, stopped by Bugner in three.

Nevertheless, it could reasonably be expected that Lovell would be able to provide some sort of a test for Bugner, and that at least he would throw a few hard punches. After all, he was getting over £4,000 for his "efforts."

The truth is that Lovell's performance was the most pathetic by any boxer in a British ring for many years. He didn't throw a punch in anger, held on at every opportunity, wobbled around the ring and generally gave the impression that he had been pushed into the ring against his will and that he wanted to stop Bugner hitting him in any way that he could.

An instance was the first "knockdown" in the opening round. Referee Roland Dakin went to part the boxers in one of the innumerable clinches, and as he touched or pushed the 14-stone Lovell the latter fell backwards to the canvas.

Referee Dakin actually took up the count, which reached "four." Goodness knows what would have happened if the Argentinian had stayed down.

Lovell incurred two warnings for holding, and a censure at the end of the first round.

The crowd was already voicing disapproval, but the second round was just as bad.

Twice Lovell went down, the first time for no apparent reason, the second from a flurry of punches. His left eye was cut, and with the Argentinian not fighting back as Bugner punched away, referee Dakin intervened.

The fans then proceeded to throw programmes and other items at the ring, and there were shouts of "disgrace."

Then it was that Muhammad Ali did his best to retrieve the situation by climbing on to the ring apron to throw playful punches at Bugner, stripping to the waist. The latter, still inside the ring and in his own corner, threw a few playful punches back, Ali did the shouting with "You've earned your shot at me, Joe," and Joe shouted back.

Some of the fans enjoyed this, others thought it brought the whole thing down to the level of a circus. You can't please everybody. Previously Ali had done a 15-minute act from the ring, which went down very well. But that was before the top-liner.

No blame can be attached to Bugner. He

VALDEZ' KO OF TONNA IN 11 ENDS IN PARIS BRAWL

By J. A. TREE

BERLIN, Germany — WBC middleweight champion Rodrigo Valdez made a successful defense kayoing French middleweight titleholder, Gratien Tonna in 11 rounds.

An unsatisfactory end came to a thrilling battle and caused a near riot in the Parc des Expositions in Paris. Referee Jean Deswert called "break." Tonna dropped his gloves, Valdez clobbered him with a left and right, and the Frenchman went to the canvas to rest on one knee.

Tonna's supporters expected Deswert to disqualify Valdez for hitting the Frenchman on the break but the third man took up the count. Tonna made no attempt to get up and was counted out.

Frenchmen stormed the ring and some tried to attack Deswert. It was some time before the gendarmes brought order in the venue.

Tonna was a worthy challenger and in rounds five and six he shook the champion with solid blows. Round eight was a particularly good frame for Tonna. Valdez, however, always recovered from Tonna's attacks to fight back strongly to command the situation. Tonna, cut under the right eye, on the bridge of his nose and over the left eye, was finding the going hard by round 10 and his cornermen could have taken their man out of the fight.

Most believe that Valdez did not hear the referee call "break." He had no reason to foul the Frenchman. The question is, did Tonna stay on the canvas hoping the WBC crown would come his way with Valdez being disqualified? Or was Tonna hurt by these blows that landed after the break so much that he could not make his feet?

Only Tonna can answer. Had he got up and fought on, I feel Valdez would have finally kayoed him, for the fight at this stage was turning in favor of the champion. Referee Deswert had Tonna in front by one round, but the Italian and German judges scorecards had Valdez ahead by two rounds.

It has been a bad year for boxing in France with three of their champions —middleweight Jean Claude Bouttier, welterweight Roger Menetrey, and junior middleweight Jacques Kechichian—all losing their titles.

At the moment they do not hold one European crown. Every Frenchman must have prayed for a local victory but Tonna didn't quite make it. They can, however, be proud of their local matador who was a brave and courageous challenger.

Valdez is looking for a big payday, a bout with Carlos Monzon, and it could take place in the French capital.

Valdez, 28, won the WBC title, taken away from Monzon, by beating Bennie Briscoe in seven rounds in Monte Carlo last

THE RING RANKS ALL-TIME TOP TEN IN EACH DIVISION

It is notable that marked increases in public regard has been achieved by Marciano, Louis and Dempsey and decreases have been suffered by Johnson, Jeffries and Fitzsimmons.

Comparison of the 1963 selections by Fleischer and the 1975 picks of The Ring group casts no aspersion on the Fleischer compilation.

The fact is that the candidates in all of the classes in 1963 and again in 1975 were so evenly matched that it was extremely difficult to locate them in each of the eight classes.

The Louis-Dempsey controversy had its inception when Joe reached the height of his class and it will continue for years to come.

It is only natural that as the years roll by the ratings of the old timers have a tendency to fall and the rankings of the more recent stars hit the experts and the fans more forcibly.

Fight styles change, too. Old timers trained for 25 rounds, the title distance today is 15. Old timers hit the road daily and did more work in gym than the current crop does. Present day fighters are head hunters, the old heroes knew a lot more than do the 1975 stars about infighting.

The most interesting point in the heavyweight Top Ten of The Ring, once past Louis and Dempsey, is No. 9.

Here we encounter Muhammad Ali. Would he have made the Top Ten if he had not stopped George Foreman, conqueror of Joe Frazier?

It will shock the adherents of Muhammad that two of the rating group did not include Ali among the Top Ten.

The dissenters refused to concede to Ali a Top Ten knockout punch despite his KO over Foreman.

Among the heavyweight champions who were left out of the leading ten are Max Baer, Jack Sharkey, Ezzard Charles, Jess Willard, Floyd Patterson, Sonny Liston, George Foreman, Jersey Joe Walcott, Tommy Burns, Primo Carnera and Jimmy Braddock.

Also refused recognition—and this will shock thousands of ancients—was the daddy of them all, John L. Sullivan. He is more properly rated among the bare knucklers, despite the fact he did pass on the glove era title to Jim Corbett.

Frazier, who made No. 10, got in by virtue of his victory over Ali in their first meeting.

Rating many of the old timers was made extremely difficult by the fact that they fought in two or three classes.

It will surprise thousands of Ring readers that Stan Ketchel did not have clear sailing among the middleweights. Two of the voters preferred Ray Robinson.

In the estimation of the Ring raters the greatest octet in boxing history, heavyweight to flyweight divisions, is honored by The Ring like this:

Heavyweight, Joe Louis; Light heavyweight, Philadelphia Jack O'Brien; Middleweight, Stanley Ketchel; Welterweight, Joe Walcott; Lightweight, Benny Leonard; Featherweight, Terry McGovern; Bantamweight, Pete Herman; Flyweight, Jimmy Wilde.

The most distinctive honor goes to Wilde. He was named first by every member of the rating committee.

Fleischer's variances from The Ring selections are: Heavyweight, Jack Johnson; Light heavyweight, Kid McCoy; Lightweight, Joe Gans; Bantamweight, George Dixon.

It was impressed on the Selection Committee that the ratings were not for the March issue of The Ring, alone, but would be found in The Ring Record Book and Encyclopedia for many years to come.

One year there will be a strong demand by Ring readers to reshuffle the selections and take care of new heroes. Reshuffled they will be.

WILL DUNDEE BE BACK IN ALI'S CORNER WHEN HE FIGHTS AGAIN?

Much has been documented as to how Angelo psyched Clay into continuing his fighting after his eyes became irritated by a foreign substance when attempting to take Sonny Liston's title away and ultimately made Liston quit.

Angelo has learned from history and the great trainers who preceded him but the quick thinking and ring psychology is his own. He knows his fighters, their potential and capabilities.

He considers it an asset to become familiar with their mental side. Each fighter, he feels, is an individual. He knows how hard to push and shove and what makes them tick, and as a result gets the most out of them.

His outstanding achievement has been the two crownings of Muhammad Ali. It was Angelo who brought him to the title and Ali has never forgotten. But Angelo is not satisfied that he has experienced complete fulfillment in boxing. There are newer, if not bigger horizons in view for this resourceful man.

Dundee has many valuable traits, the most important being an inborn friendliness and a diffidence regarding his achievements, especially in his association with Ali.

His spoken biography of Cassius is far different than anything that has been written about the two-time world champion.

He has seen in Muhammad a clean, hard working, earnest performer in a difficult profession.

"You stay in camp with Ali for weeks and you find a far different companion than the man you have read about," Angie told the writer.

In the meantime, the fight public wonders. Is Dundee rejoining Ali when the time comes to return to camp with the holder of the world championship?

My guess is that Angelo will gather around himself a group of heavyweight fighters who will get many a headline in the sports pages.

Napoles Stops Saldano In Jose's Best Style

MEXICO City — This hotbed of boxing interest and activity saw the world welter title up for grabs with Jose Napoles defending against Horacio Saldano.

Insofar as Saldano was concerned the grabbing was not very good because the challenger was knocked out in three rounds.

Frankly, Saldano was not a proper opponent for Jose. Saldano, from the Argentine, was mauled by a Napoles type of attack and that was that.

DINNY McMAHON, the Grand Old Man of Connecticut boxing, trained and managed Louis Kid Kaplan, world featherweight champion, also Jimmy McLarnin, world welterweight champion. He was the Connecticut Commissioner until boxing was banned. Dinny traveled all over the world with his champions and was and is liked and respected by all. He was and is Kid Kaplan's manager and friend.

At 89, Dinny can remember instances as vividly as though they were happening now. He talks with authority and is exact and truthful about everything he says. He is thoroughly devoted to the fight game and dislikes the phoneys who brought about the banning of boxing here.

He remembers with pride the beginning of his long and fruitful association with Louie, his pet name for Kid Kaplan, the first of Connecticut's three world featherweight kings. He tells of the power and determination of this Russian immigrant and how grateful he is to be able to say he was responsible for the Kid's becoming a champion.

ROUNDUP OF THE YEAR

Tokyo, against Ryu Sorimachi, who after being dropped three times, in the second, fifth and seventh rounds, was counted out in 2:17 of the seventh round.

There is no umbrage surrounding the rightful ownership of the welterweight crown by Jose Napoles, of Mexico.

Except for his unsuccessful bid for the middleweight crown in February, Napoles displayed his usual mastery over his own domain, the welterweight class.

In August in Mexico City, Jose met the highly heralded American, Hedgemon Lewis, who went down to defeat under a barrage of blows at 2:40 of the ninth round, ending his bid for the title.

In Napoles' only other 1974 title defense, on December 14th, he again defended in Mexico City and set back the hopes of Argentina's Horacio Saldano, who was knocked out in 1:55 of the third round. Napoles received $100,000 for this night's work and his opponent $20,000.

For purposes of clarification it must be stated that The Ring Magazine at no time takes sides in controversies over titles recognized by either the WBA or the WBC.

The Ring maintains, as it always has, that a title must be lost or won in the ring with the exception of retirement and will continue to recognize those fighters as champions who hold their crowns in accordance with this principle.

Now for the Junior Welterweights, both The Ring and all other boxing bodies, with the exception of the World Boxing Council, recognize Antonio Cervantes of Colombia. The WBC recognizes Bruno Arcari.

Arcari defended his crown on February 17th against Toni Ortiz, of Spain, with the site of the contest, Turin, Italy. There were no knockdowns in this contest and the fight ended with Arcari retaining his WBC crown when the referee Rudolf Drust disqualified Ortiz for butting in the 8th round. Arcari closed out the year with a triumph over Lawrence Hafey in Milan.

Antonio Cervantes, the rightful holder of the junior welterweight crown, is considered by most experts as one of the best pound for pound fighters in boxing at this time. He defended his title on three occasions in 1974.

On March 2nd at Cartagena, Colombia, he met the Korean challenger, Chang Kil Lee, and kayoed him in the sixth canto. Next on the Cervantes' menu was Victor Ortiz, of Puerto Rico, who, after being decked twice in the first round, was finished off at 1:35 of the second. This bout took place on July 28.

In his last defense for the year, October 26th, in Tokyo, Antonio met a Tartar in the Japanese contender, Sinichi Kadota, who despite knockdowns in the 1st, 2nd, 4th, 5th and three times in the eighth, fought back strongly until the final knockdown in the eighth round.

The lightweight division is another in which there are two versions of a world champion. The WBC maintains the Japanese Ishimatsu Suzuki, who won the WBC title on April 11 from Rodolfo Gonzales via the three knockdown rule in the eighth round, is the champ.

In his second defense, Suzuki retained his crown via a 15-round draw. There were no knockdowns. His challenger was Arturo Pineda of Mexico who made a solid try at the title and is expected to get another shot at the title. In his last outing for the year Suzuki retained his crown by kayoing Rodolfo Gonzales in 12.

The rightful owner of the lightweight crown is Panama's Roberto Duran, who won his title from the legitimate lightweight king at that time, Ken Buchanan, in 1972.

In 1974 Roberto had six fights, two of which were title defenses and the others non-title bouts. In his title fights he knocked out Esteban DeJesus, Puerto Rico, in 2:15 of the 11th stanza. In his last fight of the year he defended successfully by knocking out Japan's Masataka Takayama in seven at the Costa Rico Arena. In his non-title endeavors he won them all, defeating Leonard Tavarez, Armando Mendoza, Flash Gallego and Hector Matta.

This brings us to the junior lightweight class and the legitimate titleholder, Ben Villaflor, of the Philippines. It also brings us to the WBC and its version of the junior lightweight title, held at the beginning of 1974 by Ricardo Arredondo. In February, he lost his part of the crown to Kuniaki Shibata, of Japan, via a 15-round decision in Tokyo.

Shibata retained his title on a controversial 15-round decision in Tokyo with Panama's Antonio Amaya. In his last fight of the year he kayoed Ramiro Bolanos of Ecuador in 2:29 of the 15th round at Tokyo.

The Ring, WBA and most of the free world recognizes Ben Villaflor as the junior lightweight champion of the world. This past year he defeated Apollo Yoshio, of Japan, over the 15-round route. There were no knockdowns and, although ringsiders felt that the champ was ahead on points, the official decision was a draw with the champion retaining his crown.

In his next title defense Ben banged it out with Japan's Yasutsune Uehara and, after decking his man once in the first session and twice in the second, Uehara was counted out.

The featherweight class is considered vacant by The Ring with the hope that the WBC andidate, American Bobby Chacon, and the WBA aspirant, Nicaraguan Alexis Arguello, will battle it out so that a universal champion can once again be recognized.

As to the rightful champion of the bantamweight class, the conqueror of Arnold Taylor, of South Africa, cannot be denied. Son Hwan Hong of Korea won his title from Taylor on July 3 at Durban, decking Taylor three times while going to a 15-round decision for the crown.

He has defended once, in Seoul, against the Philippine Islands' Fernando Cabanela with Hong emerging the victor after 15 hard-fought rounds.

The Ring holds the flyweight division vacant waiting for the two halves of that title to come together. The WBA half is in the person of the Japanese puncher Susumu Hanagata, who stopped Thailand's Chartchai Chionoi to gain his piece of the crown.

The WBC portion of the flyweight crown is held by another Japanese fighter, Shoji Oguma, who won a 15-round split decision over Betulio Gonzales, of Venezuela, to gain his laurels. Only time will tell whether the two pieces will come together to make a whole.

It must be obvious that the lack of final decision as to titleholders is a detriment to boxing and a solution must be found. Our solution is the emergence of a Federal Commission in the United States which could act officially in America and join together with foreign boxing bodies into one united organization which could rule boxing. This must come to pass if boxing is to grow.

THE WORLD'S DEADLIEST FIGHTING SECRETS CAN BE YOURS...

THE SUPREME GRAND MASTER OF THE

BLACK DRAGON FIGHTING SOCIETY

brings you the forbidden secrets of

DIM MAK

"The Death Touch"

in this new improved exclusive book!

"THE DEADLIEST MAN ALIVE!"

Bringing to you these forbidden and secret fighting arts is the Supreme Grand Master of all the fighting arts — Count Danté who won the World overall Fighting Arts championship (Master & Expert Divisions) after defeating the top Judo, Boxing, Wrestling, Karate, Gung Fu, Aikido, Kung Fu, etc. masters in 'Death Matches'. On Aug. 1, 1967 the World Federation of Fighting Arts crowned the Count — "The World's Deadliest Fighting Master."

BLACK DRAGON FIGHTING SOCIETY

The BLACK DRAGON FIGHTING SOCIETY is the WORLD'S DEADLIEST FIGHTING ORGANIZATION which has included in its closed membership the top fighting experts of the DREADED CHINESE TONG SOCIETY — the oriental, and more vicious counterpart of the Mafia. Its members, who are the world's top Masters in the oriental fistic and grappling arts, train in the most SECRET and FORBIDDEN aspects of the DEADLY Chinese fighting arts of GUNG FU, TAI CHI CHUAN, CHUAN-FA, KEMPO, HSING YI, PA-KUA, SHAOLIN BOXING, KUNG FU and DIM MAK.

Until recently the forbidden training secrets of the society has been closely guarded by the members who were sworn to secrecy and joined together thru their initiation ceremony of blood. Breaking of the oath to secrecy meant death by torture to the offender.

Now for the first time their FORBIDDEN SECRETS OF TERROR can be shared with you.

BREAK A BRICK

Included in the manual is a GUARANTEED method of brick and board breaking enabling anyone to break a brick or board after only minutes of training. THIS IS NO EXAGGERATION. THERE IS NO TRICK OR GIMMICK. There is nothing to be held in the hand, or any hand brace needed; and no special stunt bricks or boards are needed. This is the same method that many famous Karate Masters use.

POISON HAND

Considered by many as evil and cruel; the lethally savage ripping, tearing, slashing, clawing and gouging techniques which comprise the POISON HAND ARSENAL are used to attack (by strike, touch or pressure) the nerve centers, pressure points, major blood vessels and vital organs of the body. You will learn the original 77 "POISON HAND" techniques of ancient China in actual photographs showing them in application. These are not photos of drawings, but actual photos of COUNT DANTÉ applying these torturing techniques which are meant to maim, disfigure, cripple or kill and have been used by oriental terrorists and assassins to MURDER!

OUR $10,000 GUARANTEE

We cannot guarantee to make you a Fighting Arts Master or even an expert, as this is up to you; but we can make a $10,000 GUARANTEE that this book is DEADLIER than any other book, manual or course ever printed anywhere, at any cost and that it was, as mentioned before, refused for past publication due to its extremely FEROCIOUS nature. We also guarantee that the "WORLD'S DEADLIEST FIGHTING SECRETS" contains the most SECRET and FORBIDDEN attack and defense methods ever devised by man and that the DIM MAK and POISON HAND techniques are completely authentic and the WORLD'S DEADLIEST FIGHTING FORMS, (Not just Tricks). Last we guarantee that you can break a real, authentic brick or board WITH NO GIMMICK — just your hand, using our method AFTER ONLY MINUTES OF TRAINING. DON'T BE FOOLED BY PHONIES. The undefeated Count Danté personally challenges to "Knock Out" (no holds barred) matches all other mail order "Masked Marvels," Kung Fu (Killer) Muscle Men, Kung Fu Dragon Masters, Supposed Masters of Karate, Kung Fu or any other Fighting Arts!

THIS BOOK CAN SAVE YOUR LIFE

The FORBIDDEN and SECRET training manual of the BLACK DRAGON FIGHTING SOCIETY has never before been available to anyone outside of the Society. Recent attempts for regular publication and public exposure have been rejected as the contents were considered HORRIFYINGLY DANGEROUS and BRUTALLY VICIOUS.

Yes, this is the DEADLIEST and most TERRIFYING fighting art known to man — and WITHOUT EQUAL. Its MAIMING, MUTILATING, DISFIGURING, PARALYZING and CRIPPLING techniques are known by only a few people in the world. This is the only book ever written on DIM MAK. An expert at DIM MAK (the most advanced form of Kung Fu) could easily kill many Judo, Karate, Kung Fu, Aikido and Gung Fu experts at one time with only finger tip pressure using his murderous POISON HAND WEAPONS. Instructing you step by step thru each move in this manual is none other than COUNT DANTÉ—"THE DEADLIEST MAN WHO EVER LIVED." (THE CROWN PRINCE OF DEATH.)

KEVIN FINNEGAN IS TRULY AN ARTIST

panel-beater by trade, married for six years to Maralynn. They have a young daughter named Lisa. Maralynn, like Kevin's mother, is not keen on going to watch him fight, but accepts it as his profession.

A few years ago, there was a British film entitled The Lavender Hill Mob. And as this is the venue for the gym that Kevin and Chris use, this is what the Sam Burns stable has been dubbed.

The gym at the Craven Arms is ruled over by trainer Freddie Hill who rules with a rod of iron. Freddie's a Cockney, and quite a character. But he exerts discipline and is highly respected in the fight game.

Kevin doesn't exactly dislike going to the gym, just prefers not to spend a moment longer in it than is absolutely necessary. These necessary moments are decided on by Freddie, who chuckles about one or two reasons supplied by Kevin for being late on occasion. But when there's a definite fight arranged, Kevin trains like a beaver.

When there isn't a particular need to go to gym, like in the summer months where it is essential only to keep tuned up, Kevin enjoys relaxing with his family. Besides being a left-handed artist, he's a fine artist on canvas, and those who have seen some of his works have stated that he could well earn a living at painting if he so desired.

When not painting, he loves to roam around the art galleries, which some people think is peculiar for a boxer, and to which thought Kevin just shrugs his shoulders.

Last February, nearly two years after losing his final eliminator, Kevin met Bunny Sterling for the latter's British title. The bout took place at the Anglo-American Sporting Club (members only).

Kevin received a purse of only £1,200, but gained compensation by beating Sterling and winning the title. It was a close verdict, disputed by the Sterling camp, and quite a shock to most critics, who thought that Bunny's greater experience would see him through.

On April 18, Kevin was 26, and his birthday present was that negotiations were proceeding for him to have a shot at the European title. It was hoped that the contest would be in London, but the French outbid everyone else, and the date arranged was May 27.

If the critics had been impressed by his victory over Sterling, they were adamant that Kevin was stepping out of his class against European champ Jean-Claude Bouttier, then No. 1 contender for the world title.

"No chance!" they said. "Not enough experience. We can only hope he puts up a good scrap."

Kevin did more than that. He won, and confounded the critics. An accurate left jab kept the Frenchman at bay, and the latter grew wilder and wilder in his attempts to bulldoze Finnegan out of it. Kevin got the verdict on all three official scorecards. And with it went a purse of £15,000.

In Kevin's corner was British promoter-matchmaker-manager Mickey Duff, who had a 10-1 bet that Finnegan and welterweight John H. Stracey would bring off a British double. Mickey didn't reveal how much he had risked, but his winnings must have been substantial.

After the fight Kevin was quoted as saying, "I have been underestimated for far too long. I hope the public will now accept that I can fight."

And manager Burns, "Kevin has proved what the boxing trade has always known, that he is a good champion."

The thing that surprised many was the immense confidence with which Kevin went about his task. With a mere score or so of fights under his belt and the first time he had boxed outside Britain, the younger Finnegan was magnificent.

The last time I met Kevin socially was at the launching of Gilbert Odd's new book, The Great Champions. The function was arranged by the Hamlyn Publishing Group, and Kevin was accompanied by Maralynn. Other notables present included Terry Downes, former British lightweight champ Eric Boon, and former crowd-pleasing heavyweight Billy Walker.

It must have given Kevin a lot of pride to be a champion among champions in his own right, and there wasn't even a mention of Chris.

Yet Kevin and Chris are as close to each other as any two brothers possibly can be. They spar together, support each other, shout encouragement and both know when to take a back seat. After Kevin had beaten Bunny Sterling, for instance, Chris didn't go along to the Hilton Hotel for the reception afterwards.

"It was his night," said Chris. "I didn't want to take anything away from it by getting into the act."

So in just two fights, Kevin Finnegan has come from nowhere to become one of the leading contenders for the world title. Lucky, some may say. Nonsense. In the fight game you make your own luck. Sure, boxing's a team effort, and Kevin has a great team behind him.

But once a fighter gets into the ring he's on his own for three minutes of every round. And it was on his own that Kevin Finnegan gave Jean Claude Bouttier a lesson in jabbing. He's an artist all right, in more ways than one.

AN EXPERT ANSWERS YOUR QUESTIONS ABOUT MUSCLES

Our files show that thousands of readers like yourself want to build bulging muscles and achieve real physical power like their favorite athletic champions. How to go about it? We decided to ask an expert, Dave Prowse, 3-times British Weightlifting champion and leading fitness expert. Here are his answers.

Q. What does it take to build muscles?

A. Basically, it takes exercise. Almost any exercise will help to develop at least some of your muscles if you keep at it long enough and hard enough.

Q. Isn't there an easier way?

A. Yes. There is one outstandingly effective training method that is also fast and easy—the one I use and recommend—the new Bullworker system.

Q. What's that?

A. The Bullworker is a revolutionary new muscle-building exerciser based on Isometrics, the science that increases strength up to four times faster than conventional methods. In my opinion, it's the most advanced training system in the world today. Many leading athletes use it: World-famous Heavyweight Boxer Muhammad Ali, World Heavyweight Judo Champion Wim Ruska, and Cycling Champion Eddy Merckx, to name only a few.

Q. How long does Bullworker training take?

A. Bullworker provides absolutely the fastest kind of exercise possible. In fact, an introduction training program takes only 70 seconds a day. No other system—weightlifting, pulleys, or strenuous calisthenics—can give you results so quickly and easily. On the contrary, many old-fashioned methods take hours of sweaty, boring work each day... and it's often months before you begin to see improvements. Busy professional athletes and champions don't have time for that. Nobody does.

Q. How long does it take before you begin getting results?

A. With the Bullworker, you can actually begin to see and measure the positive results right from the very first day! Thanks to a built-in measuring device called the Powermeter. After every exercise you just check the reading to see exactly how much your strength has increased from the day before. There's no guesswork involved. Isometric Bullworker training can increase your power at the amazing rate of up to 4% per week! That means a 50% increase in strength in the first three months alone. And I've known many young men who have gone on to double and even triple their strength.

Jack Barclay, junior Mr. Europe shows the kind of results he achieved with Isometric Bullworker training.

Dave Prowse, 3-time British Weightlifting champion, demonstrates a super-effective 7-second exercise for building powerful biceps... using the new Bullworker with built-in powermeter.

Q. What do those figures mean in visual terms?

A. They mean that in as little as 14 days you can actually begin to see muscle growth in a mirror and verify it with a tape measure. Every week thereafter brings ever faster growth.

Built-in Powermeter
You can actually measure your musclepower g-r-o-w-i-n-g from the very first day.

Q. But to get such impressive results, don't you have to work very hard?

A. Absolutely not. That's the outstanding advantage of Isometric training... it's so amazingly easy! Each "Static-power" Isometric exercise takes only 7 seconds, and you barely have to move. It's not even necessary to disrobe. The Bullworker is so light and compact, it can be used at home, in the office, anywhere... even while watching TV! It's a great improvement over bulky, expensive weights, bicycle machines, pulleys, etc.

Q. Can Bullworker training even develop bodies which are weak and skinny, or fat and flabby?

A. Definitely! It's been proven by thousands of men of every shape, size and age all over the world. Bullworker training helps transform weak, thin arms into rippling, muscular pillars of strength, build broad, powerful shoulders, turn flat, shallow chests into deep, manly ones, forge loose stomach flab into steel-hard, well-defined muscle... build that "V" shape of a real athlete, develop sturdy, contoured thighs and calves.... And all this in record time!

What's more, I've known skinny, shy fellows who, after just a few short weeks with Bullworker, turned into real go-getters... every inch a man... bowling girls over with their dynamism, confidence, and new found power! You really have to see the remarkable effects of Bullworker for yourself to believe them!

Q. How can our readers find out more about the Bullworker, perhaps actually try it for themselves?

A. I understand that the Bullworker distributor in the USA is now making it available—free—on a two week home-trial basis in order to introduce it to the general public. If your readers are interested in developing their bodies, in building muscles and strength faster than ever before possible, I suggest that they contact the US distributor for full details.

CHARLEY ROSE, 1886-1974

man at Reno. They had no right to dig the retired champion out of the attic. Johnson stopped Jeff in 15 rounds but I believe he could have done it sooner.

"Jack Johnson, whom the late Nat Fleischer rated No. 1 for all time, was a wonderful boxer and a hard puncher but he did not take fighting seriously enough.

"What they did to Johnson, chasing him around the country as an alleged violator of the stupid Mann Act was murder. They chased him to Cuba and there he lost the title to Jess Willard, who was not one of the better heavyweights on my list. Did Jack go into the tank? Don't let us discuss that.

"As for Muhammad, he would be rated one of the all time greats if he could hit harder. But don't underrate this man. He has a head on his shoulders and he fights in condition and with fine strategy. I have an idea that you would have to enter him among the leading ten. Those who say he is the greatest are quite a way off base. Did they see Marciano the night he took the title from Jersey Joe Walcott? Did they see Jeff, Langford? Did they see Corbett? However, Ali's fans are the wildest of all time. Give him that."

Rose was one of Freddie Welsh's advisors when the Briton held the lightweight title. Rose had seen Welsh fight Benny Leonard and when there was talk of a title match between them he advised Freddie strongly against fighting Benny.

"I saw in Leonard a young boxer coming up and in Welsh a veteran going down. I am afraid that Welsh did not take good care of himself. But as so often is the case with older champions, Welsh pooh-poohed the idea that the New York Jewish kid could beat him. Fight they did and Leonard became the world champion. And a great titleholder he was."

Charley left behind a collection of anecdotes which he was eager to have published.

Much of that material very likely will be published in The Ring.

FIGHT OF THE YEAR

the big guy's face. While everyone thought Ali would dance around, using his publicized "Float like a butterfly, sting like a bee" offense, Muhammad instead began to fight with his back against the ropes, absorbing Foreman's punches like a sponge.

Everyone wondered how long it could last. How long could Ali take it and how long could Foreman give it? Of course, the 216½-pound Ali's strategy won out over the 220-pound Foreman's brawn.

The longer the bout went—though it appeared that Foreman was ahead on points when the end came—the more the steam could be seen oozing out of George's punches.

Finally, in the eighth, the befuddled Foreman was tagged with a good left, followed by a hard right. Trying to keep his balance, Foreman looked as if he was trying to do a buck and wing, but tumbled to the canvas. Groggily, he took the count after getting to one knee, looking toward pilot Dick Sadler. George rose a split second after referee Zack Clayton tolled the fatal count of ten. It was all over and Ali won back the title he had once held, becoming only the second man in heavyweight history to have accomplished that feat. The first, of course, was Floyd Patterson, who recaptured the crown from Ingemar Johansson in 1960 after having lost it to him the previous year.

RING APOLOGIZES FOR OMISSION OF REPORTS

THE Ring apologizes to many of its correspondents for omitting their reports for the month from their various areas from this issue.

'' This March annual, which contains the year's summation and many features needing extended space, forced postponement of area correspondence until publication in the April issue.

Once more, our apologies and our regrets.

DURAN HALTS TAKAYAMA IN 1

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica — Fans of this little nation were the real victims when Roberto Duran, lightweight champion of the world, defended his title against Masataka Takayama, of Japan.

The challenger had had fewer than ten fights yet he was thrown against one of the best holders of the lightweight title in boxing history. The KO came as soon as possible, in the first round.

OLD BROADWAY

Topped by former Postmaster General and N.Y. State Athletic Commission Chairman, James A. Farley, with other fistic notables and other sports greats making up the dais and audience, quite a show was held at the Roosevelt Hotel for the annual Lambert Brothers football awards, topped by Penn State's again walking off with the trophy. The Lambert Cup was won by Delaware and the Lambert Bowl by Ithaca College. Guests of Bill Stein, at our table were Don Dunphy; Michigan's all-time great, Benny Friedman, and Asa Bushnell, retired Commissioner of the ECAC and founder of the Eastern College Athletic Conference.

Gov.-elect Hugh Carey made the presentation to coach Joe Paterno, of Penn State, while Bill Shea, chairman of the Lambert Trophies Board of Trustees, introduced many of the celebrities. It was great to again meet up with the Lambert brothers, Victor A. and Henry L., as well as Henry's son, Benjamin, and Ed Mosler, Vice President of the board. Incidentally, Benny Friedman is now with the Reed Roberts Associates, Inc., located in Garden City, N.Y.

Everett (Young) Rightmire, midwest candidate for featherweight honors years ago, at one time being ranked No. 2 behind Freddie Miller, is still cutting a few capers among the sports folks. The Sioux City warrior always was a popular figure and still talks of the days when he tried to get a crack at Miller's title. Writing to Teddy Lukawski, his friend associated with the Madison Square Garden security guards, Everett regrets that in almost 300 fights, with just 19 losses, in ten years of action he hasn't garnered any of the dough some of the present day crop are making.

Tommy's manager, incidentally, was Tommy O'Loughlin, well known and respected in the fistic world.

Paul Berlenbach's Ring #21, in Brooklyn, scored another knockout at its best annual affair yet at its get-together at Micali Terrace. They had quite a ball, first a smorgasbord, then the dinner, then the introductions of the honored guests and a great floor show. Chairman Sammy Venti did a great job as M.C. and Sammy Markowitz, Chairman Emeritus, handled his part of the dais flawlessly. Harry Warren, fistic correspondent for the Bronx Home News, was among the dais guests. Those honored were Sammy Cara, Petey Della, Charlie Frisco, Stanley Kasza, Charley Krikorian, Bill 'Moose' Miller and Young Zulu Kid, all of Ring #21. Also on the dais was Adrian Bailey, founder of the New Jersey Hall of Fame. It was Ring #21's 14th annual testimonial dinner and dance.

One of our fine lightweight gladiators, Sammy Vogel, passed away recently. He was managed by Phil Bernstein and fought many of the leading contenders in his day. Many will especially remember the great bout he had with the South American, Luis Vicentini.

Jack Lotz, another veteran from the past, whom we ran into at the Paul Berlenbach shindig in Brooklyn, is operating Jacky's Corner Bar at 219 Nepperhan Avenue, Yonkers, N.Y. Jackie was a fighter for 12 years, as a lightweight and welterweight, his career starting back in 1949. He figures he had almost 200 scraps, amateur and pro. His managers were Red Munroe and Bobby Melnick with Whitey Bimstein his trainer. Baby Vasquez and Johnny Boy Amazano, well known in his day, were two of his opponents. Incidentally, Lotz has had a boxing and wrestling license for several years with the State Athletic Commission, working mostly at the mat action.

Speaking of veterans, we ran into another one while over in New Jersey. His name is Mickey Vottone, now 64, a product of Newark, N.J. He was a middleweight and boxed during 1929-1936 and had approximately 100 pro fights. Among those he met were ex-middleweight king Solly Krieger, Gorilla Jones, another rugged title contender, Frank Battaglia, Young Ketchell, Joe Smallwood and Al Rossi. His manager was Angelo Pucci and his trainers Dick O'Connor and Harry Rappaport. Member of Ring 34, New Jersey. Upon quitting the game he became a taxicab driver. He and his wife, Jean, are parents of four — Barbara, Josephine, Michelle and Mickey, Jr.

Word from California about Moe Fleischer's crack little warrior from the West Side, "Irish" Jimmy Slavin, that he has retired and is now taking life easy. He wishes to be remembered to his old cronies on New York's West Side.

ISHIMATSU HALTS GONZALEZ IN 12

OSAKA, Japan — Guts Ishimatsu kept his WBC's version of the world lightweight title, when he demolished Mexico's Rodolfo Gonzalez in the 12th of a scheduled 15 rounder at the Osaka Prefectural Gymnasium. The knockout came at 2 min. 23 sec. of the 12th. Guts' one-two exploded at his opponent's chin and another right sank Gonzalez to the canvas. The loser managed to regain his feet only to be late for the count. Up to the end of the 11th, referee Yoshida and judge Inukai saw the affair even 54-54 and 53-53 respectively. Katon, another judge, had Gonzalez leading by the score of 55-53.

JIMMY BRADDOCK, 1905-1974

who had no regard for training.

When he was asked how long a champion could hold his title without being very serious about his work Baer laughed, "Oh, it takes about three years for the pace to tell."

The pace told that night in the Garden Bowl and James J. Braddock became the champion of the world.

Baer never got a chance to recover the title because Joe Louis stood in the way. When Baer met Louis, Max was stopped by Louis, who was on his way to the title, in four rounds.

Braddock had the strangest record for a world champion. He fought 85 bouts, scored 26 knockouts, won 25 decisions, lost 20 by decision, and was knocked out twice—by Louis and Lou Scozza.

Jim started his fight career in 1926 and went into retirement in 1938, going into the Army. He never fought again after his hitch in the service.

His last fight, in 1938, resulted in a ten-round victory over Tommy Farr.

In his Ring interview Braddock was asked "What was your major policy in your entire career?"

Braddock replied, "Never to underrate anybody and never to overrate anybody.

"Not to underrate was driven home by the Scozza KO. Never to overrate, by the win over Baer."

THE BRITISH ISLES

did what he had to do as quickly and competently as he could. It wasn't his fault that his opponent was inept.

One thing's for sure—Lovell will never appear in a British ring again, and I think that if an official recommendation is accepted, he won't fight again anywhere.

Matchmaker Duff said afterwards—"Mike Barrett and I have been staging promotions for 12 years, and nearly 90 shows at Albert Hall. And you don't need all the fingers on one hand to count the bad ones.

"Lovell was engaged on his record and in the belief that he would put up a good fight. Nobody is sicker than me at the fact that he didn't do so."

Presumably the Board of Control accepted Lovell for the same reasons as Mickey, and no one could have foreseen what actually happened. But it did happen, and while sympathizing with the Board, the promoter and the matchmaker, the fans did of course pay good money, and it was only human nature for them to protest.

A case like this means that even more stricter precautions should be taken when "vetting" opponents, so as to try and ensure that a similar happening does not occur again.

Oh yes—the supports. Well, former Commonwealth Games champion Bill Knight, East Lane, 171¾, stopped American John Gerowski, 177, in three after himself being caught with a couple of left hooks in the second that pulled him up in his tracks.

First round undoubtedly to Knight, who took the American's best punches in the second and came back to deal out punishment in the third, when referee Benny Caplan stopped it, much to Gerowski's annoyance.

John L. Gardner, Hackney, 204, outpointed Tony Blackburn, Tonyrefail, 192¼, over eight by 79-78½. Gardner just did enough to win in a real close one, with Blackburn at times outjabbing his opponent but not landing as many scoring punches. Gardner is now unbeaten in 12 bouts.

Trembath was aggressive from first bell to last, but Bliss provided the cleaner and more accurate punches.

Mark Bliss, Tottenham, 125½, got a six-rounds points verdict over Alun Trembath, Rhondda, 127, by 59½-58, buyt many fans didn't agree with either the decision or the scoreline.

Albert Hillman, Orpington, 152¼, knocked out Jim Corrigan, Doncaster, 155½, in the second with a beautiful right to the chin.

Gary Dunks, Stepney, 138¼, knocked decisioned Dick Goodman, Northampton, 136, by 59½58 over six by persistent aggression.

▲Midlands Sporting Club, Solihull — Southern Area featherweight champion Jimmy Revie, Stockwell, 132, gained his third victory over George McGurk, Jarrow, 136, outpointing him over eight rounds. Score 80-76.

Southpaw Revie dominated this one with right jabs and clever ringcraft, and didn't lose a po round. McGurk revealed plenty of pluck and aggression, but all to no avail. He was outboxed and outmaneuvered.

Revie didn't escape without a couple of cuts by the right eye, sustained in the fifth and sixth when McGurk gained some reward for his persistence, and George was boxing under the handicap of having arrived only an hour before due to enter the ring because the car in which he was travelling on a nine-hour journey broke down twice.

Eddie Fenton, Leicester, 191, outscored Steve Foley, Bedford, 180, over eight by 79-78, and Foley then announced his retirement from the ring.

Fenton must have pleased his mentor, veteran manager George Biddles, with some good jabbing and hooking.

An excellent victory for Gordon Kirk, Liverpool, 141½, who outpointed prospect Johnny Claydon, Battersea, 138, over eight by 79-78 after decking him three times in the fourth.

Both were taking part in their fifth paid bout, and Kirk did well to overcome an aggressive opponent by means of accurate counterpunching.

Alec Tompkins, West Ham, 163, beat Randy Barrett, Wolverhampton, 164, the referee intervening in the second after Barrett had been down twice.

Billy Smart, Corby, 131, stopped Ken Singlewood, Alfreton, 131½, in four after decking him with a left hook.

▲Neptune's Palace, Calster — Central Area welter champ Mickey Flynn, 147½, drew with Henry Rhiney, Luton, 150, over eight, but many thought Rhiney deserved a better fate.

Southpaw Flynn's right eye was badly swollen at the close, and he had to withstand quite a few barrages from Rhiney. It is true that he finished strongly, but by then Rhiney appeared to have a good enough lead to win.

Dave Tuohey, Leeds, 128, outscored Del White, Tottenham, 132, by 59½-58 over six. White started impressively, but Tuohey improved as time went on, and just about deserved his victory.

Roy Commosioung, Luton, 148, won his paid debut by outpointing Dave Coombs, Norwich, 144, over six by 59½-57½. An untidy affair.

Les Wint, Tottenham, stopped Paul Duckworth, Leeds, 149, in the opening session, never letting up until the referee intervened.

Vernon Scott, Willesden, also won on a stoppage. It occurred in the fifth round of his bout with Paul Stocks, Sheffield, 164, after the latter had been in serious trouble at the end of the fourth.

▲Manor Place Baths, Walworth, London — Tony Moore, Battersea, 186, gained a points win over Tony Blackburn, Tonyrefail, 194, in their eight (2-min.) rounder. Score 79½-78½.

The decision was not a popular one, for Blackburn proved a busy opponent and an accurate puncher. Moore had his moments, but they didn't come often enough to assure him supremacy.

In the second round Moore essayed a right swing which missed, sending him out of the ring with the impetus of his own efforts. Four rounds later Tony went down, but was up almost immediately.

Alun Trembath, Tonyrefail, 128, outscored Joey Gilbert, Leeds, 129½, over six by 60-57½. Gilbert must have had enough of meeting Trembath, who has now beaten him three times. The Welshman punched too fast and too often for his willing opponent.

Paul Davis, West Ham, 144½, outscored Les Wint, Tottenham, 149, by 59-58½ over six, improving from a shaky start to just get home.

It is always refreshing to see a former boxer take up refereeing. Ex-bantam Danny Wells officiated in the ring for this one, and as in all trial bouts the scoring was done by regular referee Mike Jacobs from outside the ring.

Mickey Ryce, Abingdon, 148¼, outpointed Nick Hinton, Penge, 149, by 59-57½ over six. Inactive for over a year, Hinton took a couple of rounds to warm up, but when he jabbed effectively, and there were those who thought he might have got at least a draw.

Kevin Paddock, Southampton, 157, outpointed Mick Lock, Croydon, 158¼ over six by 59½-57.

▲Anglo-American Sporting Club, London — Henry Cooper, Glasgow, 162¾, stopped Peter Cain, Notting Hill, 160½, in the second round. Cain's left eyebrow was cut, causing the referee to intervene. The injury required five stitches.

There wasn't enough time to assess this one. There seemed little in it in a blow-for-blow affair, neat jabbing by Cooper, and some good body shots from Cain.

Unbeaten Jimmy Flint, Stepney, 130, comfortably outscored Del White, Tottenham, 130, by 60-58 over six. Flint showed up well against a plucky opponent who came in as a substitute, and who overcame a swollen left eye.

Joe Lally, Liverpool, 158, kayoed Tony La Cruz, Brixton, 158, in the second after decking him twice in the opening round.

Augustus Simms, Brixton, 160½, outscored Mick Evans, Bournemouth, 156, by 60-58 over six "Twos", after flooring him in the fourth.

▲National Sporting Club, London — Eddie Neilson, Swindon, 218½, continued his winning run by stopping Canadian Paul Nilsen, 208½, in three after decking him twice. It was Eddie's eighth successive victory of the year, all inside schedule.

Nilson had gone six rounds with Joe Bugner a couple of years previously, but was never in the hunt against Neilson, who used his southpaw right to good effect in belting his opponent around the body, and in the second a right hand put the Canadian on the canvas.

It was too near the end of the round for Eddie to follow up his advantage, but he wasted no time in the third, catching his man with a left to the head, then a right, and down went Nilson again.

He was up at five, but referee Harry Humphreys intervened, and the Canadian seemed quite happy for him to do so.

Jamaican-born Neville Meade, 212, stopped Eddie Fenton, Leicester, 196, in five, overcoming a swollen left eye. Fenton was on the receiving end almost throughout, although there were no knockdowns.

Tommy Dunn, Reading, 134, outscored Ray Fallone, Battersea, 142, over eight "twos" by 80-75, not losing a round. Former British amateur champion Dunn left-jabbed his way to an easy victory.

Not many boxers these days have 100 fights, but Fallone was having his 94th, of which he has lost 71. He's just passed his 33rd birthday, so could well reach the century mark in bouts.

▲Liverpool Stadium — This venue has always been dubbed The Graveyard Of The Champions, and it happened again when Joey Singleton, Liverpool, 135½, took the British light-welterweight crown from Pat McCormack, Brixton, 138¾.

After being floored in the opening session, Singleton got up to win by sheer skill and ringcraft against a tough, aggressive opponent who never gave up and who thought he had won. The margin after 15 fast rounds was 147½-146.

It was only Singleton's eight pro bout, so this was quite a performance, even more impressive as he was suffering from bruised hands.

McCormack started like a champion, and a left to the jaw decked his opponent for eight. When he arose Singleton backed away, in order to clear his senses, and survived the session.

There were no signs in the second that Singleton was any the worse for his experience, and the pattern of the fight became clear as McCormack forced it, but the challenger was scoring with some good counters.

Singleton was boxing coolly, picking his punches well, and McCormack was marked above the left eye in the third. In the following round Joey bruised his left when catching his opponent on the head, and this was evident as the bout proceeded.

McCormack continued his aggression, but wasn't too concerned about defense, and was caught with neat counters as Singleton, ducked and side-stepped out of range.

The seventh was a good round for the champ. He got in close, dug away to the body, kept up the pressure and for a couple of minutes looked to have turned the tide.

But Joey was soon back with his skillful boxing, and rarely allowed his opponent to get near enough for a sustained attack. There was one period in the twelfth when McCormack got home with a right to thre jaw, and quickly followed up with a two-handed attack.

But this one ended as did all the others, with Singleton boxing his way out of trouble, and keeping in command of the situation. His nose bled in the fourteenth, but he overcame a grandstand finish by McCormack, and in that hectic final session the most telling punch was a right from the challenger that caused McCormack's gumshield to come out of his mouth.

The locals gave Singleton a great ovation, but McCormack too is to be congratulated on his contribution to a fine contest. Pay may well get a return.

Tim McHugh, Birkenhead, 156, outscored Welsh champion Dave Davies, Bangor, 152½, by 79½-78½ over eight. When they met previously the result was a draw.

McHugh overcame a cut left eye in the opening round, and another in the third to outjab his opponent. Davies was his usual aggressive self, but McHugh remained in the driving seat a good value for his pointsmargin.

Al Stewart, Ormskirk, 146, stopped Jamaican Jimm Fairweather, Brixton, 145, in seven. No knockdowns, but Jimmy was taking plenty when the ref intervened and was marked on the left eye and his mouth was bleeding.

Billy Smart, Corby, 128½, stopped Richard Scarth, Kirkby, 129, in four. Scarth was decked at the end of the third, and hadn't recovered properly when the referee intervened.

Pat Thompson, Liverpool, 176, overcame a cut by the left eye to outscore Terry Armstrong, Manchester, 178, over eight "twos" by 79-78. Thompson's cleaner punching was the deciding factor over an aggressive opponent.

▲Guildhall, Southampton — Carl Speare, Liverpool, 162¾, outpointed Jan Magdziarz, Eastleigh, 158, over eight by 79-78½. An impressive performance by the comparatively-inexperienced Speare, especially as Magdziarz' last bout was a final eliminator for the British middleweight title, which was ruled No Contest.

This one was close all through, with Speare on the end of Jan's lethal rights in the third and fifth rounds, yet fighting back strongly to remain in contention, and win the final round to clinch the issue.

Sid Paddock, Southampton, 199, stopped David Fry, Bournemouth, 210, in the seventh. Fry was cut by the right eye in the second but it was a cut by the left eye that caused the stoppage in a cracking fight.

Kevin Paddock, Southampton, 154, drew with Roy Commosioung, Luton, 152, over six. Southpaw Paddock started slowly, but finished strongly, and the decision was disputed by many fans.

Alan Butters, Bournemouth, 178, comfortably outpointed Billy Brooks, Chiswick, 178½, by 60-58 over six.

Johnny Elliott, Bournemouth, 140, was too good for Del White, Tottenham, 134, winning by 60-58 over eight.

▲Leeds Town Hall — Tony Bagshaw, Leeds, 150, knocked out Liam White, Wells, 149½, in six. There was no indication of a premature finish when Bagshaw caught his man first with a left to the body, then a right to the chin and White went down—and out.

Herbie McLean, Edinburgh, 140, stopped Ian Pickersgill, Denaby, 137, in the seventh after decking his man in the sixth. Pickersgill boxedc well, but McLean shrugged off his opponent's jabs to get inside and bang away to the body.

Dave Tuohey, Leeds, 131½, outscored Joey Gilbert, 132, over six by 59-58½.

Hugh Smith, Airdrie, 138, won a good points victory over John Sagar, Barnsley, 137, keeping on the attack to gain a 60-58 points margin over six.

▲Winter Garden Sporting Club, Cleethorpes — John Laine, Grimsby, 151¾, won the Midlands Area light-middleweight title by outpointing Keith Nugent, Stoke, 152, by the narrow margin of 98½-98 over ten rounds.

Laine had not been called upon to box more than six rounds in his previous ten bouts as a pro, but it was his strong finish that brought him victory.

Laine had beaten Nugent before, and early on it looked as if he would do so again, until Keith got home with a right to the jaw in the fifth that slowed up his opponent.

In this bout of fluctuating fortunes Laine came again in the final stages and his aggressive efforts just got him home.

A draw satisfied everyone after Jim Devanney, Bradford, 149, and George Salmon, Stoke, 150, had battled it out for six all-action rounds.

Lawrie (brother of Jim) Devanney, Bradford, 127½, outscored Gerry McBride, Liverpool, 126, by 59-57½ over six. It was McBride's first bout for nearly three years, and he showed some ring-rustiness.

Substitute Barry Clough, Stoke, 180½, outpointed Len Britton, Doncaster, 176, over six by 59-58½ in a close one.

▲Anglo-American Sporting Club, London — Former light-heavyweight champion Chris Finnegan, Iver, 173½, was subjected to booing by some members and guests after being awarded an eight-rounds points verdict over Victor Attivor, Ghana, 177, by 79-78½.

Attivor came in as a three-day substitute when the British Boxing Board of Control decreed that American Frankie Evans was an unsuitable opponent for Finnegan.

As in all close contests, both men thought they had won, as did their supporters. Attivor waded in from the opening bell and did his best to take Finnegan out of his stride, but the latter used his southpaw right jab to good effect, and his cleaner punching may have been the main reason for getting the nod from referee Sid Nathan.

Finnegan was cut on the mouth in the second round, cut over the left eye in the fourth and under the left eye in the sixth. Attivor just kept coming, and caught his opponent with long rights to the jaw.

After a shaky start Finnegan began to find his range in the third, and the difference between them was that whereas Attivor was throwing more punches, he wasn't scoring with as many as Chris.

The issue may well have been decided by the final round, which Finnegan won, coming in with two-handed attacks against a tired-looking opponent.

ACTION IN EUROPE

May. He is undefeated over the past four years, having won his last 23 engagements. In 11 years, Valdez has lost only four of his 59 bouts.

25-year-old Tonna won his last 15 bouts and only Max Cohen, Jorge Fernandez, Fabio Bettini and now Valdez have beaten him in a career spanning 39 contests.

German boxing, as in France, is having a tough time again. Eckhard Dagge failed to dethrone European junior middleweight champion Jose Duran. Lothar Abend lost his European junior lightweight crown to Sven Erik Poulsen, Norway, in May. Karl Heinz Klein faced Italian Domenico Adinolfi for John Conteh's vacated European light heavyweight title and was kayoed in the first round. The Italians secured the fight with a bid of 97,000 Swiss francs, 5,000 more than the Germans offered. Ex-European light heavyweight champion Rudiger Schmidtke, still hoping to regain his lost crown taken from him by Conteh was outscored by Brit Bunny Sterling. Two German boxers did however make the grade. Ex-European light heavyweight champion Conny Velensek travelled to Johannesburg and outpointed South African Mike Schutte. The latter was decked on two occasions.

Frank Reiche, German middleweight champion, journeyed to London to do battle with the European champion, Kevin Finnegan. There was no title at stake and the German lost on points but Finnegan ended up in a hospital with a broken jaw.

Reiche may now be managed by promoter and matchmaker, Mickey Duff.

One is beginning to wonder who Scot Ken Buchanan fought in Copenhagen recently. His opponent was named Winston Noel but the latter's manager, Al Garvin, says his boxer never left America. Perhaps the Danish Federation will explain.

Spanish promoter, Luis Barnala, who was hoping to stage a WBC junior welterweight title fight between Perico Fernandez and Lion Furuyama in Monte Carlo, has been suspended by the Spanish Federation for one year. European bantamweight champion Bob Allotey, Spain, who was to make a defense against Daniel Trioullaire, France, has been banned for two years.

We had 22 European title fights in 1974, an improvement over 1973 when there were only 18.

In 1974, six of the 22 title fights took place in Spain, 4 in Italy, 3 in England, 3 in France, 2 in Norway and Germany, 1 in Denmark and Austria.

Heavyweight Joe Bugner, Britain, and featherweight Jose Jiminez, Spain, are the only two European champions still reigning from 1973. In the 22 European title fights during 1974, seven champions were dethroned, middleweight Elio Calcabrini, Italy; Jean Claude Bouttier, France; junior middleweight Jacques Kechichian, France; welterweight Roger Menetrey, France; junior welterweight Toni Ortiz, Spain; lightweight Antonio Puddu, Italy; junior lightweight Lothar Abend, Germany. Four other champions, light heavyweight John Conteh, Britain; junior welterweight Perico Fernandez, Spain; bantamweight Johnny Clark, Britain; and Fritz Chervet, Switzerland, vacated their titles. Conteh and Fernandez won semi-world titles and handed in their EBU crowns. Clark and Chervet called it a day after medical checks.

Britain rules the waves with four champions, heavyweight Joe Bugner; middleweight Kevin Finnegan; welterweight John H. Stracey; and lightweight Ken Buchanan.

Spain has three European champions, junior middleweight, Jose Duran; featherweight Jose Jiminez; and bantamweight Bob Allotey.

Italy has two, light heavyweight Domenico Adinolfi and flyweight Franco Udella.

Norway has one, Sven Erik Poulsen, junior lightweight.

GERMANY

▲Munich — Boxing again in Munich after seven years did not see the fans fighting to get in the Olympia venue. In fact, only about 3,500 were in attendance. Britain, Alan Minter, who boxed in this same venue in the 1972 Olympics, faced Shako Mamba, Zaire, over eight rounds and won on points. German heavyweight champion, Bernd August, kayoed American, Reco Brooks, in round five. Middleweight. Eckhard Dagge, Germany, outscored Frenchman, Pascal Zita, ten. Welterweight. ## IN SUNNY CALIFORNIA

118 of Dallas at 55 seconds of the seventh of another 10 rounder. Martinez had been unbeaten in 15 outings.

Mexico's hottest prospect, Alfonso Zamora, kept his perfect record intact with his 19th consecutive knockout victory by stopping Puerto Rico's Jose Rosa.

Zamora, 121, landed a crushing right to the jaw in the third round that sent Rosa, 120, back on his haunches. Rosa beat the count, but his glassy-eyed expression prompted referee Rozadilla to stop the match at 2:53 of the third.

In a five-rounder, Armondo Cordova, 136, won a split decision over Jose Macias, 137.

▲Inglewood — For Mando Muntz, it was nothing but the best.

His best fight, he said. The elation he ever has left coursing through his superbly-conditioned body. Easily the highest moment of hi-long, weary journey through the welterweight ranks.

For winning a close but unanimous decision over Hedgemon Lewis at the Forum, Mando Muniz has taken the biggest atop of his life:

To the threshold of a championship fight with long-reigning Jose Napoles at the Forum.

After a tissue-thin opening four rounds, in which Lewis, 148, employed strategy similar to slugger Muniz, Mando gradually took charge and pulled away.

It was ironic that as Lewis slowly eased back into his familiar pattern of sticking and running, Mando drew farther in front on points.

Both Muniz, 149 and Lewis agreed on the pivotal point: "I kept the pressure on, and eventually that broke him," assessed the winner. "I'm not a bit tired."

"He just kept coming at me, all the time, the whole fight," Lewis sadly related while lying on his training table. "I did get tired."

Muniz, at 28 the same age as Hedge, confessed surprise that Lewis used an old Mando tactic, straight-ahead punching, in the early rounds.

Inability to overwhelm Muniz with this move may have cost Lewis some points, but not the fight. Mando did too much later.

"I'm not sure why he wanted to slug it out with me," said Muniz, "Either he was in better shape that I thought or he didn't expect the fight to go 10 or he did not respect me."

The crowd of 3,100 that paid $24,100 was solidly in Muniz' corner and the noise increased in proportion to the lead Mando was assuming.

Referee George Latka and judge Larry Rozadilla agreed that it was a narrow win for Muniz, voting 6-4 and 5-4. Judge Bobby Rings had it 6-1. The Herald Examiner card was 7-1.

Yoshi Shikauchi, 123½, Tokyo, dec. over Sergio Ayala, 124, Mexico City, (10); Jose Del Rio, 119, Los Angeles, dec. over Chuck Goodrun, 118½, Bell, (6);

▲San Diego — Unbeaten Carlos Tijerina, 172, San Diego, wasted little time in his first time out as a main eventer.

Tijerina finished off Bob Hampton, 175, Oakland, after 2:24 of the first round. It was his 10th straight win and ninth knockout.

▲Los Angeles — Smart boxing Alberto Davila, 116½, Pomona, punched his way to a near shutout over Bonnie Neccessario, 120, Manila, P.I., in the 10-round windup at the Olympic Auditorium.

It was Alberto's 14th win in 15 starts. He just outsmarted the Filipino all the way.

Judges Larry Rozadilla and Dick Steele scored it 11-0 and 10-, respectively. Referee Chuck Hassett was more charitable to the loser, coming up with an 8-1 tally.

Antonio Gin, 137, Mexicali, KO over Luis O'Campo, 140, Los Angeles, (2); Johnny Jenson, 120¼, Los Angeles, KO over Alfonso Delgadillo, 120, Mexico, (2); Jose del Rio, 118½, Los Angeles, KO over Juan Lopez, 120, East Los Angeles, (6).

▲Los Angeles — Improving Randy Shields, 136½, North Hollywood, scored his most impressive win to date when he knocked out Leoncio Mesa, 134, Turicato, Mexico, in the fourth round of their 10-rounder at the Olympic.

Shields ended matters after 2:18 of the fourth. Randy staggered Meza with a left hook, then had him helpless from a barrage of blows.

Referee John Thomas stopped the fight at this point.

It was Randy's 17th straight win and 12th by knockout.

Freddie Gonzalez, 120, Los Angeles, dec. over Juan Lopez, 120, Mexico, (6); Isidro Salinas, 133, Mexico, dec. over Bobby Larson, 132, Los Angeles, (4); David Smith, 172, Los Angeles, dec. over Charlie Brooks, 177, (6).

▲Sacramento — Two young bantamweights with perfect records, Joe Guevara and Frankie Duarte, met in the feature event at Memorial Auditorium.

After 12 busy rounds, local favorite Guevara was awarded a close decision. He also collected the vacant California bantamweight championship.

Guevara weighed 118, Duarte, from Los Angeles, 117. The Sacramento bantam now has 13 straight.

The gate was $10,784, best of the year in the Capital City.

Pete Ranzany, 148, Sacramento, KO over Dan Kibby, 152½, Eureka, (3); Timmie Miller, 135, Oakland, KO over Fidel Valenzuela, 139, Mexico, (3); Isidrio Salinas, 133, Sacramento, dec. over Dave Kibby, 139, Eureka, (6).

▲San Diego — Irish Mike Nixon, 158, Glendale (Cal), looked as if he were on his way to a 10 round decision over David Love, 157, San Diego, but midway in the ninth, Love claimed he couldn't continue because of a low blow tossed by Nixon.

Mike had floored Love with a body shot, which Love said was low. The Commission physician, Dr. William Lungreen ruled that Love was unable to continue.

Commission official Joe Olmos then called the bout a "no decision". Both boxers received their purses and promoter Mickey Davies was looking for a rematch.

▲Los Angeles — Fresh from a six month medical suspension, Zovek Barajas was a shell of his former self as he overpowered Jimmy Caffey, 155, Youngstown, Ohio, in the main event at the Olympic Auditorium.

Barajas, out of action following a knockout loss to Billy Lloyd last May, had no strength in his punches. But, he landed enough to make Caffey surrender in the fifth.

Zovek closed the Ohio boxer's right eye in the fifth.

Caffey, after a modest exchange of blows, dropped to one knee and advised referee John Thomas that he couldn't see out of his right eye.

Thomas then awarded the contest to Barajas, who upped his record to (29-4-1). Zovek, from Mexicali, Mex., weighed 153.

Raul Rosette, 117½, North Hollywood, dec. over Young Casanova, 119, Mexicali, (6); Julio Gomez, 147½, Los Angeles, dec. over Jose Duarte, 148, East Los Angeles, (5); Johnny Jensen, 122, Los Angeles, dec. over Jose Del Rio, 120½, Mexico, (4).

▲San Jose — Henry Clark, 216, California's no. 1 heavyweight, rolled to an easy 10-round decision over Charles (Moleman) Williams, 209, at Civic Auditorium here.

These two big fellows were originally scheduled to box on the Ali-Foreman card in Zaire, but Williams never made it to the stadium, getting held up in traffic.

In a co-feature ten, Rudy Cruz, 158, Fresno, upset favored Rudy Robles, 157½, Los Angeles. It was a non-stop action battle all the way.

Promoter Joe Gaglardi had a turnout of 2400 fans and a gate of $5750.

▲San Francisco — Jean Mateo, the French-Basque from Stockton, stunned the 2500 folks at Kezar Pavilion by knocking out Marco Gerardo after 2:50 of the first round.

Gerardo seemed to have Mateo just about out on his feet from a series of vicious left-right combinations. Reeling on the ropes, Jean was given a standing eight count by referee Rudy Ortega.

As Gerardo rushed in for the finish, Mateo smashed a power-laden right under Marco's heart, sending him to the floor for the full ten count.

Mateo weighed 161, Gerardo, from San Diego, 160.

Other results: Johnny Melendez, 145, San Francisco, dec. over Roger Buckskin, 147, River's End (Cal), (10); Schoolboy Lujan, 124, San Diego, dec. over Tanny Amanico, 123, Stockton, (10).

GALINDEZ STOPS HUTCHINS FOR WBA LIGHT HEAVY TITLE

That the end was near was indicated by the knockdown in the 12th. He took the count standing up, then sat down and remained sitting, sick and badly whipped.

International experts who were asked to pick between Galindez and Conteh were not sure which way to vote. They called the Briton a better boxer but Victor a harder puncher. They called the Briton the more accurate hitter and expressed the hope that the two would meet and settle the title issue.
